JOHN WOLFORD

Former Deputy Dies Following 1-Car Accident

John Wolford, 37, of 936 Lincoln Drive, was dead on arrival at Lancaster-Fairfield Hospital 9:30 p.m. Tuesday following a one-car accident a mile northeast of Amanda.

A former Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff, both under Charles Radcliff and later under Dwight Radcliff, Wolford was owner-manager of 23 Auto Parts in Lancaster. He was returning home when the accident occurred.

An autopsy is being performed to determine exact cause of death. According to the investigation by the Fairfield County Sheriff's Department, Wolford's auto went left of center and off the left side of the highway, came back across the highway and traveled down the right side, then went into a ditch and rolled over three and one half times.

The car traveled 650 feet from the point where it first went off the road to where it came to a stop. The car was demolished.

MR. Wolford was a member of Trinity Lutheran Church and of Circleville BPO Elks Lodge 77. He was a former stock car race driver and drove in the Daytona 500 at one time.

Born Sept. 29, 1933, in Circleville, he was the son of Samuel and Florence Huffman Wolford.

He is survived by his widow, the former Barbara Eitel; two daughters, Leslie and Rebecca, of the home; two brothers, Sam, Circleville; James, Honolulu, Hawaii; three sisters, Mrs. Mary Zahard, Route 3, Mrs. Eleanor Webb, Columbus; Mrs. Carolyn Myers, Houston, Tex.

Funeral services will be 2 p.m. Friday at Deffenbaugh Funeral Home with the Rev. Paul David Young officiating.

Burial will be in Jackson Twp. Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home beginning 1 p.m. Thursday.

Say Instrument Failure Caused Marshall Crash

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP) — A preliminary report compiled by West Virginia State Police blames instrument failure for the Nov. 14 jetliner disaster which claimed 75 lives near here, including most of the Marshall University football team and coaching staff.

The report, which does not carry any legal weight, contends instruments operating inaccurately were the reason the jetliner clipped tree tops and crashed into a muddy hillside in the worst air disaster in American sports history.

Included in the fatalities were 43 Marshall football players and coaches and more than 20 prominent local citizens.

Sgt. Fred Donohoe of the Huntington detachment said Tuesday his report rules out pilot error and indicates the crew believed their Southern Airways DC9 jetliner was flying 200-300 feet above its actual altitude.

The secretary estimated that monthly payments on a typical FHA-insured home will be $20-$25 less under the 7 per cent rate than under the 8 1/4 per cent rate prevailing last year.

The rate is effective today. But Romney urged lenders to rewrite existing mortgage commitments to reflect the new, lower rate.

$20,000 Draw Sought By City Council Members

Circleville City Council authorized Auditor Marvene Turner to make an advance draw of $20,000 on April personal property and real estate tax disbursements.

The city had a $6,630.54 deficit in the general fund at the end of January according to the statement of income and expenses prepared by Mrs. Turner.

On Dec. 31, 1970, the city had only a balance of $4,658.75 in the general fund with no appreciable income anticipated before the April tax disbursements.

Councilman David Goldschmidt, chairman of the finance committee, pointed out the deficit is only temporary and that expenses are based on anticipated income for 1971. He emphasized the city is not spending unbudgeted funds.

AN ordinance was passed by councilmen which will permit the local RCA plant to install a direct fire alarm system to the Circleville Fire Department.

Also approved by councilmen was an ordinance authorizing the city to pay $7 monthly per employee on hospitalization insurance. Under the plan the city will pay for fulltime employees or parttime employees who work more than 20 hours weekly.

An ordinance authorized the safety director to advertise for bids for a 1971 model police cruiser was passed after its first reading. Specifications for the new cruiser are on file with Safety Director Robert Adkins and a 1970 model cruiser will be used on trade.

An ordinance creating a planning and engineering account within the permissive motor vehicle tax fund and transferring $10,000 to the new account was held to a first reading. Councilman David Crawford explained the new account was created to provide money for engineering and planning for the Issue 1 project on Nicholas Drive and for the

Congress Back; Little On Tap

No Significant Legislation Ready

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress returned to work today after a five-day recess, short on business and long on talk.

For the Senate, the agenda read filibuster, as it has since the 92nd Congress convened.

Neither Senate nor House has any significant legislation ready for action. The House Ways and Means Committee scheduled a hearing today on increasing the national debt ceiling from $395 billion to $435 billion. That may be the first major measure to reach the floor.

The Senate remains snarled in the dispute over efforts to make ending filibusters easier.

Poes of the rules change used the filibuster itself to block a change endorsed by a Senate majority, and as a result there has been marathon talk for nearly three weeks.

The first test of voting strength in the rules battle comes Thursday, with a roll call on a petition to cut off the filibuster led by Southern conservatives.

Nobody, including the 38 sponsors of that petition, expects it to succeed. But Sen. Mike Mansfield, the majority leader and a proponent of the rules change, said there will be continued attempts to limit the debate, and one of them may gain the two-thirds vote necessary to stop the talk.

At issue is a rules change sponsored by 51 senators, under which a three-fifths vote would be sufficient to limit debate.

Sens. James B. Pearson, R-Kan., and Frank Church, D-Idaho, are the chief sponsors of the rules proposal, which got a boost Friday when the White House issued a cautious endorsement of their campaign.

Late session filibusters last year blocked action on Nixon's Social Security, trade and welfare reform proposals in the 91st Congress.

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler noted the President has said "it was unfortunate that procedural delays stalled the important legislation before the Congress."

How long the current stall will last is, at the moment, an open question, and one that won't really make much difference until legislation begins to flow from committees onto the Senate floor.

Of his constituents, Evins said: "They are a great people and they deserve all the help and assistance that's going to them."

Evins' hometown of Smithville, population 2,997, belongs with surrounding DeKalb County to the list of 150 locales in the country designated as Model Cities—an entree to special consideration when federal funds are being awarded.

Cookeville, 30 miles away and also in Evins' district, is another Model City. Its population is 14,270.

The Model City designations were made by the Department of Housing and Urban Development, one of the agencies whose appropriations are handled by an Evins' subcommittee. Another such agency, the Atomic Energy Commission, sends $300 million annually into Evins' district, which includes the AEC's massive Oak Ridge facilities.

"I've worked hard," said Evins in an interview, "and by time and effort I have come into a position where there's opportunity for service. . . . I haven't been provincial in my work. I'm not provincial. I've worked for programs for New York and the

North Viets Hit American Base Close To Khe Sanh

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese troops attacked an American position in rocky hills northeast of Khe Sanh and rain and low clouds today prevented U.S. helicopters from flying in reinforcements.

At last report at dusk, the American troops were still holding out after calling in artillery close to their own positions to keep back a North Vietnamese force of 200 or more surrounding the U.S. position.

There was no indication whether the main North Vietnamese force was still surrounding the position or whether it had faded in the face of artillery and air strikes into rocky hillsides and thick jungle undergrowth in terrain broken by many ravines, streams and rapids.

An Army spokesman at Quang Tri said contact had broken off at midnight, but Air Force spokesmen said sporadic contact continued after that. The Air Force spokesmen said bombing missions were flown throughout the day in support of the position.

First reports said more than a half dozen U.S. troops had been wounded.

The position under attack is located near the Rockpile, half a mile southeast of an artillery base named Scotch and 10 miles northeast of the Khe Sanh combat base. The American troops are part of 9,000 U.S. force acting as a blocking force for the South Vietnamese operation in neighboring Laos.

Two earlier attacks on U.S.

positions around Scotch killed six Americans and wounded seven.

An Army UH1 helicopter on a supply mission a mile southwest of the Rockpile was shot down and crash-landed, but the crew escaped.

Military sources said the United States has stepped up reconnaissance flights over North Vietnam slightly but no significant enemy supply movement southward has been detected.

Hunt For Slayer Of Texas Deputies Spreads Over State

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Authorities have lodged murder charges against the second of two brothers in the execution-style slayings of three peace officers.

A search widened throughout the state, meanwhile, for ex-convict Rene Adolpho Guzman, 33, one of the accused pair. He was described to investigators as "a real mean man—he thinks he's Al Capone."

Dallas County Sheriff Clarence Jones said Guzman and his brother, Moses Zunia Guzman, 35, were at a house where five officers were taken captive. Jones said the two Guzmans escorted the deputies to a spot in the Trinity River bottom where the killings took place Monday night.

The deputies were checking the license number of a car spotted in a small town south of here while a burglary was being committed.

A hail of gunfire killed sheriff's deputies Sam Infante, 32, and William D. Reese, 31, of

Rabies Victim Is Identified

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A boy, 4, found abandoned in a park with a note warning he had been bitten by a rabid animal, has been identified by his father.

The boy, Robert William Kerr, remained under observation at a hospital today.

The boy's father, Robert E. Kerr, 28, told police he returned from work Monday afternoon and found his wife and son gone. His wife, Donna, 27, was still missing, officers said.

Kerr told police the couple's other, recently-born child was put up for adoption.

Arrest Pair; Cash Bogus

ACAPULCO, Mexico (AP) — An investigation is under way into two Americans and two Canadians arrested after discovery of $62,000 in counterfeit $20 bills in a hotel room. There is no indication when further action will be taken in their cases, a government attorney said today.

"I have not heard whether the arrested persons have named a defense attorney, or if they have considered the possibility of applying for bail," said attorney Wilfredo Ortiz.

The four Americans are James Edwards, 24, of Union, Ohio; Jerry Ashworth, Fairborn, Ohio, and the Canadians, Susan Pelletier and Robert Janet. A Mexican, Jose Soto Luna, was arrested with them.

Ortiz said the investigators will try to determine if they are involved in anything else illegal.

Ortiz said the arrests were made Monday in a hotel after Miss Pelletier tried to pass one of the counterfeit bills in a hotel shop. A haul of 3,100 bills with the same serial number was found, he added.

Expansionist Policy Shows Few Results

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's economy inched ahead sluggishly last month, still not responding to President Nixon's ambitious expansion policies, a new government report shows.

Industrial production, one of the first significant economic indicators reported this year, advanced by seven-tenths of 1 per cent in January, the Federal Reserve Board said Tuesday.

At any other time, the gain might have been significant. But, the board said, factory output is still catching up from the knockout blow of last fall's General Motors' strike.

Excluding the unseasonably high 18 per cent increase in auto production, output of the nation's factories showed continuing slack, with declines in production of television sets and other appliances, industrial, commercial and defense equipment and commercial aircraft.

A spokesman for Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers said the production index for January "is a good figure. It doesn't set the world on fire, but it's a good steady figure."

He said the most encouraging signs are the auto production snapback and a stepup in steel output, reflecting industry stockpiling in anticipation of a strike later this year.

"Hopefully, these will spread into other areas," he said.

The administration is looking for a dramatic jump in output in March and April to realize its prediction of an up turn in the economy.

After pursuing tight fiscal and monetary policies in fighting inflation last year, Nixon has ordered heavier federal spending, combined with easier money policies from the Federal Reserve, to expand the economy this year.

His primary goal now is to tackle unemployment, currently at 6 per cent. Nixon has predicted a 9 per cent leap in economic activity this year as measured by the Gross National Product.

Lower Rate On Federal Mortgages

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration today lowered the maximum allowable interest rate on government-backed mortgages to 7 per cent in a further move to bolster the reviving housing market.

The cut is the third in the past three months and brings the mortgage interest rate back down to 1968 levels. It peaked at 8½ per cent last year on mortgages insured by the Federal Housing Administration and Veterans Administration. An additional one-half of one per cent insurance fee is tacked on to FHA mortgages.

"Prospective home buyers will be able to make plans based on a reduced cost of mortgage money, and this should provide new impetus to the already buoyant homebuilding outlook," Housing Secretary George Romney said.

He noted the new interest ceiling "may be just a little ahead of current conditions in the corporate bond markets."

"But with the mortgage lending institutions becoming increasingly flush with funds, it will not be long before the new ceiling is fully validated."

The secretary estimated that monthly payments on a typical FHA-insured home will be $20-$25 less under the 7 per cent rate than under the 8½ per cent one prevailing last year.

The rate is effective today. But Romney urged lenders to rewrite existing mortgage commitments to reflect the new, lower rate.

Solons With Purse Strings Help 'Folks Back Home'

EDITOR'S NOTE: Congressmen who head appropriations subcommittees are in a position to help the folks back home get a fatter share of federal funds. This study by a member of the AP Special Assignment Team illustrates how that fact of political life has aided one congressional district.

By KEN HARTNETT
Associated Press Writer
SMITHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) —

Rep. Joe L. Evins, a country boy who grew up to control pursestrings holding more than $20 billion in federal funds, hasn't forgotten where he comes from. Neither has the U.S. government.

An Associated Press study shows federal dollars are flowing into Evins' middle Tennessee district at a rate that would nearly double the government's non-defense outlays if applied to the nation as a whole.

Evins' case illustrates an accepted fact of political life: Chairmen of appropriations subcommittees are in a better position than most congressmen to help the folks back home.

As a Democrat with 24 years seniority, Evins last year headed two appropriations subcommittees handling funds for 37 federal agencies and offices. And, records show, non-defense government outlays in his district in fiscal 1969 totaled $527 million. By comparison, average non-defense outlays per congressional district that year were $313 million.

"Joe really takes care of his district," said Cookeville, Tenn., City Atty. Wes Platt Jr., who managed Evins' campaign last fall when he was re-elected with 83 per cent of the vote. "I don't know where we would be without him."

Of his constituents, Evins said: "They are a great people and they deserve all the help and assistance that's going to them."

Evins' hometown of Smithville, population 2,997, belongs with surrounding DeKalb County to the list of 150 locales in the country designated as Model Cities—an entree to special consideration when federal funds are being awarded.

The Model City designations were made by the Department of Housing and Urban Development, one of the agencies whose appropriations are handled by an Evins' subcommittee. Another such agency, the Atomic Energy Commission, sends $300 million annually into Evins' district, which includes the AEC's massive Oak Ridge facilities.

"I've worked hard," said Evins in an interview, "and by time and effort I have come into a position where there's opportunity for service . . . I haven't been provincial in my work. I'm not provincial. I've worked for programs for New York and the West and all over the nation."

Evins pointed out that in his tenure as HUD appropriations chairman "HUD has never been cut back in any of its major programs."

He cited his work in helping obtain congressional approval of President Johnson's rent supplement program.

"He gives the impression of being just a little old country boy," said a former congressional liaison man. "But he's a bright guy and he's extremely interested in trying to fund things for a constituency a hel-

Grisly Double Murder Probed In Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Police put "every available man" on their investigation today of the grisly murder of a young woman and her infant son in a north side townhouse apartment.

Clues uncovered so far, according to detectives, include fingerprints recovered from a butcher knife used to repeatedly stab Christina Mitchell, 25, and footprints found outside the apartment.

Mrs. Mitchell's partially clad body, stabbed in the chest with hands and feet tied in front of her, was found on a bed in an upstairs room.

The body of her son Scott, 8 months, was in the bathroom. Cause of his death had not been determined officially, but police said he appeared to have been strangled or drowned.

The scene, described by one veteran officer as "sickening," was discovered by the woman's husband, James W. Mitchell, 28, when he returned home to the Thurber Manor apartment from work.

Mitchell told police he found the door locked and the safety chain in place. When he got no answer to the doorbell he had a neighbor help him break in.

Lt. Richard Gordon of the homicide squad said the killer was believed to have entered through a rear glass door which was unlocked.

He said nothing was missing from the apartment, ruling out robbery as a motive. It will not be known if she was raped until after an autopsy is performed, he said.

Gordon said none of the residents of the modern apartment complex reported seeing anyone entering or leaving the apartment Tuesday. Mitchell said his wife always kept doors

Ohio House Seeks 'No Strings' Tax Sharing

TOPICS federal cost sharing projects.

Mayor Richard Gerhardt told council that by delaying passage of the ordinance, they were delaying action on the two proposed cost sharing projects.

Mayor Gerhardt also told council that acquisition of right-of-way easements was holding up the Atwater Avenue-Morris Road improvement project.

THE mayor said that four agreements have been signed but two property owners refuse to sign on the terms offered by council.

The mayor said it was the third time that council has asked the mayor and service director to try to get everyone to agree to sign.

The mayor stated that he felt further negotiation would be fruitless and recommended that council exercise its right of eminent domain to acquire the necessary easements.

He noted that a provision in the state law permits a city to acquire immediate title to the easements and if a disagreement arises over final settlement for the easement, it is then decided after the title is acquired.

Should council make use of this provision, it would permit the city to proceed with the street improvement without further delay.

The proposed improvement has already been delayed five years, first by the northend storm sewer project and then by not being able to acquire easements.

COUNCIL BRIEFS

Council President Joseph Bell reminded members a public hearing will be held 8 p.m. March 2 on rezoning an area of land bordering Nicholas Drive. Rezoning of the area has been recommended by the Circleville Planning and Zoning Commission.

Fire Chief Bernard Wolfe informed council that only one bid was received Monday on installing a forced air heating system in the Fire Department. The bids were to be received Monday. Wolfe was told by one contractor that he did not submit a bid because he heard the city building would be closed Monday, a legal holiday.

The 1970 financial report of the city of Circleville was distributed to council members. The report was prepared by City Auditor Marvane Turner. The annual report of Circleville Municipal Court was also received.

Council members Goldschmidt, Crawford, Frank Barnhill, Gladden Troutman, Harold Clifton and Keith Wagner were present for Tuesday's session. Samuel (Pete) Cook was absent. Also on hand were President Bell and clerk Robert Shadley.

Council again held a brief session Tuesday. It was over by 8:45 p.m.

Court Rules On Appeals

Appeal Judges for the Fourth District returned two decisions in cases filed in Pickaway County.

In a criminal action, Judges Gordon Gray, Homer Abele and Earl Stephenson upheld a decision reached by jurors in a trial for Keith Donald Fletcher.

Fletcher and an associate, John Wiles, were arrested for a burglary of a Certified gas station in Pickaway County and charged with grand larceny.

The Appeals Court could find no error in the court proceedings cited by Fletcher's attorney to invalidate the sentence. The Oct. 22, 1969 judgment and sentence of the court will remain. Fletcher is currently serving time on two consecutive penitentiary terms of 1-7 and 1-15 years for the incident.

The Court of Appeals reversed a Common Pleas Court ruling in a will dispute between Marvin Swackhammer and others and Geneva Forman. Judges ruled that the will admitted by the Probate Court should be accepted as the last will and testament of the deceased M. E. Swackhammer and dismissed the evidence considered by the county court as being unsworn declarations and could not be the legal basis for a will change.

Trash Fire Doused

City firemen were called early Tuesday night to extinguish a blaze in some junk and old tires across the railroad tracks at the Apple House on Route 23. Cause of the fire is unknown.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Apparently taking the recent counsel of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew to heart, the Ohio House passed a resolution Tuesday asking Congress to convene a constitutional convention to talk about federal revenue sharing with the states.

The resolution, passed 71-22, marked the first step in an effort to claim some of the federal financial pie for Ohio on a "no strings attached" basis.

A similar resolution was introduced during the 108th General Assembly session, but died in a Senate committee.

Rep. Charles E. Fry, R-9

Springfield, prime sponsor of the resolution, said the proposal was "in much better shape this time."

Fry said an identical resolution has already been passed by nine other states and approved by one legislative house in four others.

Thirty-four states must approve the resolution before a constitutional convention may be called.

In order for a revenue-sharing proposal to be adopted at such a convention 38 of the participating states must approve it.

Three Democrats, all freshmen, argued against adoption of the resolution, claiming a revenue sharing arrangement would sap the states of their independence and make them "provinces of a strong central government."

An amendment to the resolution offered by Rep. Phale Hale, D-63 Columbus, to eliminate the "no strings" provision was defeated 59-35. Hale said unless specific money was set aside for urban problems, a revenue sharing program could kill the civil rights movement in Ohio.

The resolution now goes to the Senate Ways and Means Committee for hearings.

The Senate received two resolutions proposing constitutional amendments — one to restrict the imposition of the death penalty, the other to eliminate secret session provisions in the procedural rules of both legislative houses.

Four Democratic senators jointly sponsored the resolution proposing elimination of the secret session authority from the Ohio Constitution.

The sponsors, Sens. Ronald Mottl of Parma, Harry Mesel of Youngstown, William Bowen of Cincinnati and John Poda of Akron, proposed voters on the November ballot decided for themselves whether legislators should have the power to exclude the public press from deliberations.

The secret sessions issue was brought into focus last month when House Speaker Charles F. Kurfess, R-4 Perrysburg, convinced the Republican majority to adopt a secret session rule.

Kurfess said at the time such a rule would conform to powers granted the legislature by the constitution.

Nixon Studies Wage-Price Freeze In Building Industry

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Free prices and wages are the heart of our economic system. We should not stop them from working even to cure an inflationary fever."

Thus, in his annual economic report to Congress, President Nixon expressed his strongest rejection to date of wage and price controls as a way to combat inflation.

Now, a little more than two weeks later, Nixon is reported to be seriously considering clamping a wage and price freeze on the construction industry.

Even a temporary freeze would represent a dramatic turnaround in Nixon's thinking. When Congress granted him the power to impose temporary wage and price controls last year, Nixon said it was power he didn't want and wouldn't use. The law permits the President to set temporary maximums on wages, prices and rents at any levels not below those of May 25, 1970.

Nixon held out the possibility of government intervention in that economic message, and in a December speech before the National Association of Manufacturers in New York.

Still, those statements gave no hint Nixon was considering such a drastic step as a wage and price freeze, an action usually confined to times of war or runaway inflation.

A step most frequently mentioned in the industry as easing the situation is repeal or suspension of the Davis-Bacon law which establishes union rates on federal construction projects.

It is also a move that Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, suggested in December.

But the President said Jan. 18 he was not prepared to take such actions as putting price ceilings on federal construction

Egypt Backs U.N. Council's '67 Resolution

Wants Israelis To Withdraw; Seen Unlikely

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Egypt has informed U.N. envoy Gunnar V. Jarring that it will pledge compliance with the Security Council's 1967 resolution on the Middle East if Israel does likewise, Cairo's authoritative newspaper Al Ahram reported today.

The reply to last week's peace initiative by Jarring urged him to obtain from Israel a pledge to "discharge the obligations contained in the resolution," Al Ahram said. It listed them as Israeli withdrawal from all territory occupied in the 1967 war, "a just solution to the Palestinian problem" and a formal declaration renouncing the use of force, territorial occupation and expansionism.

The note agreed to provide Jarring a declaration of Egypt's intentions and promises a pledge "to uphold responsibilities stemming from the execution of the resolution" if the promise were obtained from Israel, according to the semi-official newspaper.

Jarring's proposals asked for declarations of intent from Israel, Egypt and Jordan, holding indirect peace talks via him at the United Nations in New York, and asked their views on how to bring peace to the region. It also gave the Swedish diplomat's ideas on a satisfactory settlement, which is understood to include Israeli withdrawal from the Suez Canal and the Sinai peninsula and stationing of U.N. soldiers at Sharm el Sheikh, at the foot of the Sinai, to safeguard Israeli shipping in the Gulf of Aqaba and the Strait of Tiran.

Passed on Nov. 22, 1967, five months after the six-day war, the Security Council resolution provides for Arab recognition of Israel's right to exist within "secure and recognized boundaries;" an end to Arab belligerence; Israeli navigation rights in the Gulf of Aqaba and the Suez canal; a just solution to the problem of Palestinians displaced when Israel was established in 1948; and Israeli withdrawal from the occupied territories.

Nixon's economic advisers say a 6 per cent growth in the money supply will be needed to reach the administration's goal of an $88-billion increase in output of goods and services in 1971.

The Senate has had a similar rule for a number of years, but has never invoked it. In fact, Senate Pro Tem Theodore M. Gray, R-3 Piqua, described the rule as "one we don't need."

The resolution was referred to the powerful Senate Rules Committee for consideration. The committee, ironically, conducts all its sessions in secret. Sen. Oliver Ocasak, D-27 Akron, sponsored another resolution restricting the use of the death penalty in capital offense cases.

Under the Ocasak proposal, the death sentence would be confirmed to those persons who killed a prison guard or law officer and to second offenders in capital punishment cases. All other capital offense crimes would bring a penalty of life imprisonment instead.

Among Senate bills introduced during the session were ones that would:

Grisly Double Murder Probed In Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Police put "every available man" on their investigation today of the grisly murder of a young woman and her infant son in a north side townhouse apartment.

Clues uncovered so far, according to detectives, include fingerprints recovered from a butcher knife used to repeatedly stab Christina Mitchell, 25, and footprints found outside the apartment.

An amendment to the resolution offered by Rep. Phale Hale, D-63 Columbus, to eliminate the "no strings" provision was defeated 59-35. Hale said unless specific money was set aside for urban problems, a revenue sharing program could kill the civil rights movement in Ohio.

The resolution now goes to the Senate Ways and Means Committee for hearings.

The Senate received two resolutions proposing constitutional amendments — one to restrict the imposition of the death penalty, the other to eliminate secret session provisions in the procedural rules of both legislative houses.

Four Democratic senators jointly sponsored the resolution proposing elimination of the secret session authority from the Ohio Constitution.

The sponsors, Sens. Ronald Mottl of Parma, Harry Meshel of Youngstown, William Bowen of Cincinnati and John Poda of Akron, proposed voters on the November ballot decided for themselves whether legislators should have the power to exclude the public press from deliberations.

The secret sessions issue was brought into focus last month when House Speaker Charles F. Kurfess, R-4 Perrysburg, convinced the Republican majority to adopt a secret session rule.

Kurfess said at the time such a rule would conform to powers granted the legislature by the constitution.

Egypt Backs U.N. Council's '67 Resolution

Wants Israelis To Withdraw; Seen Unlikely

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Egypt has informed U.N. envoy Gunnar V. Jarring that it will pledge compliance with the Security Council's 1967 resolution on the Middle East if Israel does likewise, Cairo's authoritative newspaper Al Ahram reported today.

The reply to last week's peace initiative by Jarring urged him to obtain from Israel a pledge to "discharge the obligations contained in the resolution." Al Ahram said. It listed them as Israeli withdrawal from all territory occupied in the 1967 war, "a just solution to the Palestinian problem" and a formal declaration renouncing the use of force, territorial occupation and expansionism.

The note agreed to provide Jarring a declaration of Egypt's intentions and promises a pledge "to uphold responsibilities stemming from the execution of the resolution" if the promise were obtained from Israel, according to the semi-official newspaper.

Jarring's proposals asked for declarations of intent from Israel, Egypt and Jordan, holding indirect peace talks via him at the United Nations in New York, and asked their views on how to bring peace to the region. It also gave the Swedish diplomat's ideas on a satisfactory settlement, which is understood to include Israeli withdrawal from the Suez Canal and the Sinai peninsula and stationing of U.N. soldiers at Sharm el Sheikh, at the foot of the Sinai, to safeguard Israeli shipping in the Gulf of Aqaba and the Strait of Tiran.

Passed on Nov. 22, 1967, five months after the six-day war, the Security Council resolution provides for Arab recognition of Israel's right to exist within "secure and recognized boundaries;" an end to Arab belligerence; Israeli navigation rights in the Gulf of Aqaba and the Suez canal; a just solution to the problem of Palestinians displaced when Israel was established in 1948; and Israeli withdrawal from the occupied territories.

Nixon's economic advisers say a 6 per cent growth in the money supply will be needed to reach the administration's goal of an $88-billion increase in output of goods and services in 1971.

Nixon Studies Wage-Price Freeze In Building Industry

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Free prices and wages are the heart of our economic system. We should not stop them from working even to cure an inflationary fever."

Thus, in his annual economic report to Congress, President Nixon expressed his strongest rejection to date of wage and price controls as a way to combat inflation.

Now, a little more than two weeks later, Nixon is reported to be seriously considering clamping a wage and price freeze on the construction industry.

Even a temporary freeze would represent a dramatic turnabout in Nixon's thinking. When Congress granted him the power to impose temporary wage and price controls last year, Nixon said it was power he didn't want and wouldn't use. The law permits the President to set temporary maximums on wages, prices and rents at any levels not below those of May 25, 1970.

Nixon held out the possibility of government intervention in that economic message, and in a December speech before the National Association of Manufacturers in New York.

Still, those statements gave no hint Nixon was considering such a drastic step as a wage and price freeze, an action usually confined to times of war or runaway inflation.

A step most frequently mentioned in the industry as easing the situation is repeal or suspension of the Davis-Bacon law which establishes union rates on federal construction projects.

It is also a move that Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, suggested in December.

But the President said Jan. 18 he was not prepared to take such actions as putting price ceilings on federal construction

Probation Given In Narcotic Case

Ruth Bowman, Route 4, pleaded guilty to having a narcotic drug in her possession in Circleville Municipal Court today.

She was charged by Circleville Police Judge Sterling M. Lamb sentenced her to six months in the county jail and fined her $500. Both the fine and sentence were suspended and she was placed on probation for three years.

Robert Starkey Jr., 360 Walnut St., forfeited a $24 bond posted when he was charged for intoxication.

Sharon Woods Ackley, 26, Ashville, forfeited a $24 bond for speeding 65 miles per hour in a 50 mile zone.

The Senate has had a similar rule for a number of years, but has never invoked it. In fact, Senate Pro Tem Theodore M. Gray, R-3 Piqua, described the rule as "one we don't need."

The resolution was referred to the powerful Senate Rules Committee for consideration. The committee, ironically, conducts all its sessions in secret.

Sen. Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron, sponsored another resolution restricting the use of the death penalty in capital offense cases.

Under the Ocasek proposal, the death sentence would be confirmed to those persons who killed a prison guard or law officer and to second offenders in capital punishment cases. All other capital offense crimes would bring a penalty of life imprisonment instead.

Among Senate bills introduced during the session were ones that would:

Volunteering For Army

Army analysts scanning last year's Army induction record have concluded fewer than one of four men coming into the service last year could be called volunteers, although half the inductees signed up on their own.

Of the 296,000 men who entered the service during 1970, 159,000 were drafted. The Army study concludes that 73,000 of the remainder enlisted rather than face the draft and 64,000 volunteered because they wanted to.

The number of pure volunteers may be on the conservative side. For purposes of the study it was assumed that draft lottery number 240 was the dividing line between those who could expect to be drafted and those who would not be called. Volunteers holding numbers higher than 240 were considered legitimate volunteers; the others were regarded as keeping one step ahead of the draft by selecting their military specialties.

That is a misleading assumption. It is reasonable to assume that at least some of the volunteers with lower draft classifications joined because they wanted to. The study does point up how far from a true volunteer Army the present service remains.

When you eat in a home in which a dish of toothpicks is ornamentally placed on the dining room table, you know one thing about the master of the house: he may not be the neighborhood fashionplate—but at least he's not henpecked!

One of the puzzles of life is why, when you call the right number, nobody answers or the line is busy, but when you dial the wrong number there is always somebody there to become annoyed and bang the receiver in your ear.

If all the housewives in America were wealthy enough to buy caviar by the tubful, they'd probably still tell their husbands that all they had for lunch was a tuna fish sandwich.

Now and then you meet a person who can recite the alphabet backward as well as forward. I always feel sorry for him, because I feel he must have had a painfully shy and lonely childhood and was forced to figure out this odd way of showing off to others.

You're probably not the executive type if you're so dumb you have to put your foot in your mouth before discovering you've got a hole in your shoe.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — The national average cost of maintaining a hospital patient for one day rose from $9.50 in 1946 to more than $81 last year, is expected to reach $93 this year and to top $105 in 1972 and $110 in 1973.

Those are averages. Costs in excess of $100 a day already are reported in some hospitals, prices ing medical care beyond the reach of millions. And some of the factors responsible for past increases seem to defy correction.

Making the picture more grim, there is not only a shortage of doctors but a maldistribution as well, and the same may be said of medical care. Some facilities and services are duplicated while others are unavailable.

Moreover, diabolical ingredients in the present formula for medical services seem to frustrate the efforts of cost cutters. Unlike industry, for example, hospitals very infrequently obtain lower costs by employing new machinery. The machine might improve health, but it generally will require the services of new, highly trained personnel.

Another example: Health insurance plans often encourage unnecessary hospital stays by specifying that work paid for must be done while the individual is a bed patient rather than an outpatient.

And consider how wasteful it is that the entire emphasis is on illness rather than health, on correction rather than prevention, on remedies for ailments that might have been avoided through recipes for health.

So bleak in the picture that one is impelled to believe that the future can only be brighter. Perhaps so. At least one man who believes the corner has been turned is Dr. Edwin Crosby, head of the American Hospital Association.

"I'm an optimist," said Crosby as he described "Ameriplan," a proposal by the association for restructuring the "delivery" and financing of health services, mainly through establishment of health care corporations.

Such units would take responsibility for the health of individuals living in specified areas, providing them with five essentials: health maintenance, primary care, specialty care, restorative care and custodial care.

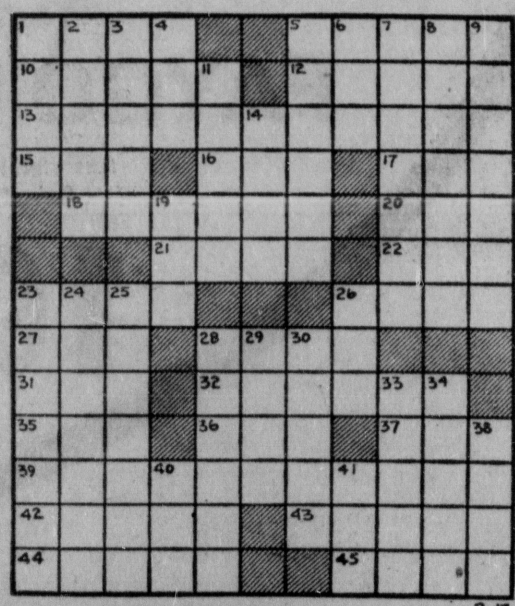

Although the functions of such corporations are still related in broad terms they would, in general, be able to control duplication of services in an area, route patients to correct facilities, coordinate purchasing, and install cost-cutting incentives.

Work would be contracted out to doctors and institutions with an eye not only for the best care but the greatest efficiency. The patient's needs and the area's facilities would be coordinated. No such corporations now exist, and in fact a federal law would be required before they ever became a reality. As envisioned, medical schools, hospitals, insurance companies or others involved in medical care would develop the corporations, with financing coming as before from fees, insurance programs and government aid.

MRS. CRONIN caught her pixedated husband sneaking into the house at about 4:30 a.m. "Now you tell me," she demanded, "exactly what you've been up to all night." "Okay," agreed Mr. Cronin wearily, "but I'm exhausted — so stop me if you've heard this one before."

In the good old days when banks — not to mention butchers, grocers, and coal and ice merchants — sent their customers fancy calendars every December, one bank's offering was so ornate and expensive that a grateful recipient sent a handmade calendar in return. It depicted Santa Claus tiptoeing up to a row of six cribs, one for the bank president, five for the vice presidents, and the note accompanying same read, "Dear Bank: I just got your calendar, which set me to thinking that nobody ever sends YOU a Christmas greeting, personal like. Thanks for being a nice, gracious bank with good taste and good service."

The sender, incidentally, was one of the bank's richest and most socially prominent depositors.

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Although my problem is not a glamorous one, I have a feeling that your answer will interest a lot of people.

My ears itch constantly. I have tried to scratch them with everything that seems safe, but get no relief.

What do you recommend?

Miss A.H.G., N.Y.
Dear Miss G.: Scratching certainly is not the answer to your problem.

That which people consider "safe" for scratching frightens most physicians who deal with this problem in everyday practice.

If you knew how delicate is the lining of the ear canal, you could realize how "unsafe" are most of the homestyle instruments used for scratching. I have seen the damage done by sharp-edged paper clips, hairpins, pencils and toothpicks. Even a cotton-wrapped swab stick can damage the ear canal if it is handled too vigorously.

The entire ear canal is lined by a thin layer of skin that is susceptible to infection, inflammation and, particularly, allergy.

Unless the exact cause of the irritation is found, treatment of any kind is seldom effective.

Fungus infections, eczema, and inflammation due to hair sprays and cosmetics, all can cause distressing itching. Over-the-counter medicines should be avoided because they may contain drugs which, in themselves, are harsh and irritating.

Only those drugs properly screened by your own doctor should be considered "safe." The newer cortisone ear drops are effective when they are chosen by the physician for a particular reason. Antibiotic drops and salves are also used to combat infection in the ear canal.

Anti-fungus medication and local treatment can control this source of unpleasant itching.

Finding the cause, however, is the only way to find the ideal treatment.

What causes a child to be born with an "opening" into the spine?

Mrs. I.R., Ohio
You refer to as an "opening" in the spine is probably one that is known as a "spina bifida."

This is due to some error in the development of the embryo while in the mother's womb. There are many variations of the condition, depending on its extensiveness.

Modern surgery has done wonders for spina bifida.

New Contract Ends Ashland Oil Strike

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Employees of the Ashland Oil & Refining Co. refinery in Canton voted Monday night to accept a new two-year contract, ending a strike which began Jan. 11.

The contract approved by members of Oil, Chemical and Tomic Workers Local 7-450, provides for an 8 1/2 per cent pay raise in the first year and a 7 1/2 per cent raise in the second. Some 185 workers had been involved in the strike.

Bernadette Devlin

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Bernadette Devlin, the Northern Ireland "Joan of Arc" who recently did time in jail for throwing rocks at the police in the Bogside of Derry, is back in the United States to collect money for her radical cause. This time she is conducting her campaign with a difference.

When she was here a couple of years ago she did the patriotic bit, making her appeal to the whole Irish-American community in the name of uniting Southern (Eire) and Northern Ireland (Ulster). This time, however, she is largely bypassing the sons and daughters of the Irish immigration, having discovered that they are mostly "bourgeois." Instead of passing the hat, women's lib fashion, in taverns and hitting the members of the Ancient Order of Hibernians for charity money to help the Catholic "victims" of injustice in mainly Protestant Ulster, Miss Devlin is now going the WASP, or White-Anglo-Saxon Protestant, route. Her adventure in "radical chic" will take her to fifty American universities where she will lecture, for fees reportedly running as high as $2,500, to the dissident sons and daughters of the more or less affluent Establishment.

The last time she was here Bernadette couldn't resist a penchant for falling into revolutionary sloganizing. She spoke, at a few meetings, of uniting the "workers" of both Southern and Northern Ireland against their capitalist bosses of whatever religious persuasion. In short, she had set her sights (as she later confirmed in her autobiography) on overturning not only the Ulster government in Northern Ireland but also the Dublin parliamentary government, which freed itself of England nearly 50 years ago.

Miss Devlin's lingo on occasion was New Leftist, even Neo-Maoist; the Irish Times of Dublin subsequently quoted her as saying that she was "too far left to be Communist, if you speak of it in the Soviet sense . . . we are true Communists." Not wishing to help overthrow the Irish Free State in Dublin along with the Stormont government in Ulster's capital of Belfast, the American Irish began drawing their purse-strings tight before Bernadette had finished her first tour. She collected a disappointing total of $42,000.

She insists the money went for "relief of distress," but there have been charges in court, as reported in the Belfast Telegraph, that some of the "charity" money dumped indiscriminately in Irish banks has gone for gunrunning.

This time Miss Devlin wants money for a "socialist research center." She has been brazenly frank about taking "capitalist money" for leftist purposes. To a reporter for the Belfast

Telegraph she has said, "We are happy to receive capitalist money in our attempts to destroy the capitalist system. If they are stupid enough to give it to us, we are glad to use it — it is our money anyway." Her song for an Irish Independent reporter in Dublin has been on the same note: "If capitalists are stupid enough to pay people to destroy them, why shouldn't we do it? No capitalist has a penny that the working class did not put in his pocket."

The Devlin stand on violence comes with some circumlocution. Speaking of the justification for force, she told an Irish Times reporter that "when it is our most effective weapon, we will certainly use the last, the final violence, against the system. If we are considered criminals our crime is quite simply the destruction of the capitalist system in which we live — a noble struggle . . . There is no doubt that this time it must be la lutte finale." Miss Devlin was quoting from the Communist line about the "final conflict" in the song called the Internationale.

It was Louis Brandeis who once said that the capitalists would provide the rope for the Communists to hang them. The Leninist contempt is there for all capitalists to read, and when Miss Devlin echoes the Founding Father of Bolshevism our university heads, who depend on capitalist money, can hardly say that they weren't warned.

Far be it from this column to deny Bernadette her freedom of speech on fifty American campuses. But why shouldn't there be an equal amount of free speech for a "truth squad" to follow Miss Devlin to Rutgers, Cambridge or wherever she intends to go, the capitalist dollar for her "socialist research center"?

A worthy project for the Young Americans for Freedom, don't you think? Won't some capitalist who resists suicide provide travel money for a YAF contingent to trail Bernadette around the country?

Volunteering For Army

Army analysts scanning last year's Army induction record have concluded fewer than one of four men coming into the service last year could be called volunteers, although half the inductees signed up on their own.

Of the 296,000 men who entered the service during 1970, 159,000 were drafted. The Army study concludes that 73,000 of the remainder enlisted rather than face the draft and 64,000 volunteered because they wanted to.

The number of pure volunteers may be on the conservative side. For purposes of the study it was assumed that draft lottery number 240 was the dividing line between those who could expect to be drafted and those who would not be called. Volunteers holding numbers higher than 240 were considered legitimate volunteers; the others were regarded as keeping one step ahead of the draft by selecting their military specialties.

That is a misleading assumption. It is reasonable to assume that at least some of the volunteers with lower draft classifications joined because they wanted to. The study does point up how far from a true volunteer Army the present service remains.

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

The hardest criminals to reform aren't murderers or safe-crackers but "paperhangers"—those who make a career of passing bad checks. Almost as soon as they are released from prison, they often borrow a pen and start writing their way back behind the bars again.

An old-timer is a guy who can remember when the ambition of every railroad man in America seemed to be to own a solid gold ring set with a big red ruby.

Appearances are sometimes deceiving, but not in the case of any woman over 40 who throws away her maxiskirt in favor of wearing the new styte "hot pants" in public.

Any smart secretary soon learns that the best way to keep a temperamental boss from raising cane is to sugar him up. Most occupations have areas of moral blindness which enable their members to do a wrong thing without feeling bad about it. The usual excuse is, "If I don't the other fellow will—so why should I be a sucker?" It is this attitude which permits many policemen to accept free meals and small bribes for overlooking minor law violations. The custom is so widespread that among cops it is traditionally referred to as "fair loot" or "honest graft."

The joys of modern office life fall on some girls when they discover it isn't nearly as much fun learning to program a computer as it is to program a husband.

An optimist is a fellow who tries to borrow money from the guy at the next desk on a Monday.

When you eat in a home in which a dish of toothpicks is prominently placed on the dining room table, you know one thing about the master of the house: he may not be the neighborhood fashionplate—but at least he's not hennecker!

One of the puzzles of life is why, when you call the right number, nobody answers or the line is busy, but when you dial the wrong number there is always somebody there to become annoyed and bang the receiver in your ear.

If all the housewives in America were wealthy enough to buy caviar by the tubful, they'd probably still tell their husbands that all they had for lunch was a tuna fish sandwich.

Now and then you meet a person who can recite the alphabet backward as well as forward. I always feel sorry for him, because I feel he must have had a painfully shy and lonely childhood and was forced to figure out this odd way of showing off to others.

You're probably not the executive type if you're so dumb you have to put your foot in your mouth before discovering you've got a hole in your shoe.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — The national average cost of maintaining a hospital patient for one day rose from $9.50 in 1946 to more than $81 last year, is expected to reach $93 this year and to top $105 in 1972 and $110 in 1973.

Those are averages. Costs in excess of $100 a day already are reported in some hospitals, pricing medical care beyond the reach of millions. And some of the factors responsible for past increases seem to defy correction.

Making the picture more grim, there is not only a shortage of doctors but a maldistribution as well, and the same may be said of medical care. Some facilities and services are duplicated while others are unavailable.

Moreover, diabolical ingredients in the present formula for medical services seem to frustrate the efforts of cost cutters.

Unlike industry, for example, hospitals very infrequently obtain lower costs by purchasing new machinery. The machine might improve health, but it generally will require the services of new, highly trained personnel.

Another example: Health insurance plans often encourage unnecessary hospital stays by specifying that work paid for must be done while the individual is a bed patient rather than an outpatient.

And consider how wasteful it is that the entire emphasis is on illness rather than health, on correction rather than prevention, on remedies for ailments that might have been avoided through recipes for health.

So bleak in the picture that one is impelled to believe that the future can only be brighter. Perhaps so. At least one man who believes the corner has been turned is Dr. Edwin Crosby, head of the American Hospital Association.

"I'm an optimist," said Crosby as he described "Ameriplan," a proposal by the association for restructuring the "delivery" and financing of health services, mainly through establishment of health care corporations.

Such units would take responsibility for the health of individuals living in specified areas, providing them with five essentials: health maintenance, primary care, specialty care, restorative care and custodial care.

Although the functions of such corporations are still related in broad terms they would, in general, be able to control duplication of services in an area, route patients to correct facilities, coordinate purchasing, and install cost-cutting incentives.

Work would be contracted out to doctors and institutions with an eye not only for the best care but the greatest efficiency. The patient's needs and the area's facilities would be coordinated.

No such corporations now exist, and in fact a federal law would be required before they ever became a reality. As envisioned, medical schools, hospitals, insurance companies or others involved in medical care would develop the corporations, with financing coming as before from fees, insurance programs and government aid.

Seniority System In Congress Repels Assault

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a classic legislative undercurrent, the Congressional Record of March 19, 1910, refers to "great confusion in the Hall." Speaker Joseph T. Cannon had just dared the House to throw him out of office.

The challenge was accepted by Rep. Albert Sidney Burleson, D-Tex., who introduced a resolution declaring the office of speaker vacant.

Cannon, a 74-year-old Illinois Republican, held his job by a 192-155 vote after being on the losing end of perhaps the greatest congressional rebellion in history.

But the wings of "Uncle Joe," as he was known, had been closely clipped. No longer did he have the undisputed power which he had exercised so arbitrarily and vindictively as to merit his description by historians as a "czar" and a "tyrant."

The revolt that curbed Cannon's appointive power and other controls over committees did much to strengthen the present seniority system of advancement in prestige and position on the basis of length of legislative service.

Although seniority long had been a cornerstone of the legislative establishment, to Cannon it was what he wanted it to be on a day-to-day basis.

He had power to appoint committee members and chairmen, and the power of appointment carried the power of removal. He was ex-officio chairman of the powerful Rules Committee. Cannon had no hesitancy about shifting committee assignments of members who displeased him. His unwritten rule was "go along or get thrown out," a variation of the advice the late Speaker Sam Rayburn gave to freshmen: "To get along, go along."

The rules Cannon inherited when he became speaker in 1903 left little room for recourse from his interpretation. Their objective was to give the majority party parliamentary tools needed to carry out its responsibilities under the leadership of the speaker.

Cannon enforced the rules to the hilt and took advantage of every gimmick they provided.

The seniority system has withstood many onslaughts since Cannon's era, most recently this year.

The 1971 sorties left little doubt the rank and file would rather make some sacrifices of seniority than return to "Cannonism."

House Democrats last month approved party rules giving the Democratic caucus veto power over committee assignments recommended by party leaders. The first target of the new power was Rep. John L. McMillan, D-S.C., veteran chairman of the House District of Columbia Committee.

A challenge to his reappointment failed by caucus vote of 126 to 96, close enough to give advocates of a rigid seniority system some second thoughts.

Cannon insisted he had not unjustly used the powers the 1910 rules conferred on him. But he stretched them to suit his whims.

A coalition of Republicans—then in the majority—and Democrats decided Cannon had gone too far and had abused the powers given him.

In a surprise move engineered by Rep. George Norris of Nebraska, a Republican, a resolution removing the speaker from the Rules Committee and revoking his power to name committee members was offered March 17, 1910.

Cannon ruled the resolution out of order. Norris appealed the ruling and the House overruled Cannon by vote of 182 to 162, with 44 members not voting.

For more than 30 consecutive hours, the House debated the issues. The record of its proceedings is replete with such notations as "great confusion in the Hall," "loud applause" and "show your nerve."

Later in the afternoon of March 19, the House adopted the Norris-proposed rules changes by vote of 191 to 156, starting what historians describe as "a new era" in the House.

Cannon didn't take defeat too gracefully.

In his invitation to colleagues to strip him of the speakership, Cannon referred to "the revolutionary manner" in which the rules changes were proposed and to "a flushed majority in a moment of factional success."

He could resign, he told the House, and "permit the new combination of Democrats and insurgents" to replace him, or he could have the coalition declare the office vacant.

To resign, he said, would be "a confession of weakness or mistake or an apology for past actions," and he was "not conscious of having done any political wrong."

There was only one alternative.

Burleson, who was to become Postmaster General under President Woodrow Wilson, offered a motion declaring the speakership vacant. Even some who had led the revolt against Cannon tried to force adjournment before Burleson's motion could be considered.

But Cannon insisted on a showdown and won, 192 to 155, with 41 not voting.

The dehorned Cannon was left with his title but not his power. And, for him, even the title was short-lived. He reigned as speaker only a year after that legendary 1910 battle—until Democrats swept into power and elected Champ Clark of Missouri.

Ohio Turnpike Reports Boost In Vehicle Tally

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Turnpike Commission has reported a record number of vehicles used the turnpike last year despite a drop in commercial traffic.

Total traffic rose to 21,348,482 and income was up to $38,173,652, compared with 20,776,394 and $38,038,652, respectively, in 1969.

The commission said in its annual report the declines in commercial traffic and revenue were aggravated by a truck drivers' strike last spring which cut truck traffic to one-fifth the normal volume. That strike lasted several weeks.

Ferguson Rips Ohio Bureau Of Inspection

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson Tuesday charged the Ohio Bureau of Inspection under former Auditor Roger Cloud with incompetence.

Ferguson said in a statement that the bureau had long delays getting out reports on local political subdivisions.

Ferguson today authorized release of 66 audit reports completed during 1970 and approved by the bureau of inspection during October, November and December.

"However, for some unknown reason they were not released prior to the Jan. 11 changeover in administration," Ferguson said. Some of the examinations, Ferguson noted, were ready for signature and release last summer.

Ferguson said he saw no reason why routine audit reports could not be processed within 30 days.

One audit released today showed an irregularity in the accounts of the former Attica Local School District in Seneca County.

Ferguson said the school board passed a resolution to pay individual hospitalization coverage for teachers. He said the board was without authority to grant additional compensation without assigning extra duties and entering into supplemental contracts.

He issued a finding for recovery against the Buckeye Insurance Co. totaling $687.93. The firm was the school board's bonding company.

Ferguson used the Attica audit to back up his charges of incompetency against the bureau as it was operated by Cloud. He said a field examiner completed a report May 16, 1970 and the bureau received it June 29.

Ferguson said the audit report wasn't signed by the then director of the bureau of inspection until Oct. 29.

Ferguson's examiners also brought findings for recovery against the City of Nelsonville and the Village of Coolville. Ferguson said the amounts were negligible and occurred as a result of local officials receiving pay raises during their terms of office.

Ohio Turnpike Reports Boost In Vehicle Tally

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Turnpike Commission has reported a record number of vehicles used the turnpike last year despite a drop in commercial traffic.

Total traffic rose to 21,348,482 and income was up to $38,173,652, compared with 20,776,394 and $38,038,652, respectively, in 1969.

The commission said in its annual report the declines in commercial traffic and revenue were aggravated by a truck drivers' strike last spring which cut truck traffic to one-fifth the normal volume. That strike lasted several weeks.

Dear Abby: Wants To Help Dad's 'Problem'

DEAR ABBY: What does a teen-aged son do when he knows his father is having a backstreet affair with his secretary? I've planned to say so many things, but always end up in a cold sweat and say nothing. My mom is a fine looking woman. She is pretty, dresses well and can hold her own on any subject, so why did dad turn to a cheap nobody? He sneaks around like a common thief to meet this woman at a motel on Wednesday afternoons (his day off). Dad used to be such a great guy. Now I can hardly look at him without feeling sick to my stomach. I just have to do something, Abby, but it scares me. I can't go to our rabbi with this rotten mess because he is a friend of the family. My father is a professional man and everybody in town thinks well of him. Please help me. I don't want mom hurt.

BROKEN-HEARTED SON DEAR SON: Tell your father what you suspect, but don't be surprised if he denies it. And don't be disenchanted either. He may have "problems" you know nothing about. Be patient. At least your father will be alerted to the hazards in his conduct for your mom's sake if he not his.

Reif. So comment educators and an architect about the innovative Turner Middle School, grades six through eight, where teachers work in teams, where there are no bells, no rigid class subject schedules, no doors, where, instead, three great open classrooms have replaced the customary "egg-crate" design of a school, where carpets line rooms and corridors.

"Doors lock a kid's mind. Kids this age need freedom to move, freedom to think," is the way Herbert Jackson, principal last year, put it. "The typical school is organized on the assumption that if one child talks to another he is either out of order or he's cheating," says Callaway, professor of education at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, who organized the curriculum.

Schools, they all agree, should teach freedom by allowing freedom and letting children learn that it calls for responsibility and self-discipline. A casual sampling finds pupils overwhelmingly in favor of their school.

"It's better when you can get the latest gossip while you study," says a seventh-grade girl. A boy, eighth grade, "They don't care if you chew gum or not. That took all the fun out of it." Another eighth-grade boy: "You only learn when you want to, and here I want to." Girl, sixth grade: "There are more choices, you can go more places. I feel I'm learning more." Boy, seventh grade: "I like it better this year, I'm not cooped up. I keep busier. There's more to do."

The Turner school, in a suburb of Beloit, is one example of the growth across the land of educational experiments intended better to fit children for tomorrows quite unpredictable world. Numerous individual features here—such as the open space, no walls classrooms—are not original. But perhaps unique is the way a school board looked ahead in education and tapped the thinking not only of experts but townspeople and high school pupils who had just been through the traditional middle school experience.

Expressing the resultant philosophy, Callaway says "the basic emphasis is on the individual child, on his developing values, and learning of self-discipline and responsibility. We want to help kids find out who they are, where their talents lie, and how to get along with people."

"And Kids want to know what they can and cannot get away with. The usual style is to tell kids to set up and shut up, do your work, conform, acquiesce, then you'll get along. But then, later on, we ask them, why aren't you more responsible?"

"For kids this age (11 to 13 or 14), the curriculum should draw upon all disciplines, and cut across rigid separation of subjects, with emphasis upon exploration of social issues and problems, with particular attention to development of individual interests, values and attitudes," Callaway adds.

Children at this age, "are trying for freedom, but aren't usually given a chance to work with it," says Schmidt, principal in the second year of the school. "And we must teach them how to keep on learning for in the future a person may have to change his career two or three times because of rapid changes in our society."

Reif, architect of John J. Flad & Associates, Madison, Wis., who designed the school, comments that "a child at this age is tremendously active. He needs space, and places to work with his hands. And he needs continuous association with his peer groups."

A great difference between teaching and learning is that "in learning, we set the scene and create the atmosphere for the child to explore," says Strassburg, former superintendent of the school district. He resigned recently, to enter the field of drug abuse control in another city, saying, "My work here is done. I was hired to do a job and I've done it. We built something here which is pretty special, and it's working."

The school is "the remarkable successful result of an uninhibited effort by an improbable group of people who sought only to find a better way of meeting the educational needs of the early adolescent," says William B. Behling, executive director of the Beloit Daily News, who was school board president in 1968 when a new school was needed. The "improbable group" included suburbanites, farmers, businessmen, educators, factor workers, housewives and high school pupils, organized into a Citizens Planning Committee.

The board and Strassburg called in Callaway, and worked out what they wanted to do before calling in architects for a design to let it work. Reif heartily applauds this approach. High school pupils Callaway recalls, gave such advice as, "I didn't study anything interesting or exciting in my middle school . . . We studied about things that weren't going to happen . . . School shouldn't be a prison."

When the school proposal was first presented to townspeople they turned it down, partly because it seemed too radical a change, Behling says. But then school board members each accepted a specific field in interest or phase of the project, and did their homework to become thoroughly knowledgeable, including the WHY of such a school. "We sort of wrote out our own scrips, and held actual rehearsals of what we could say. Then we presented our story at another meeting, putting on a home town show. We're your neighbors and friends, we said, take our word for it—it will work, it will be the best thing you've done for education. Let your kids be pioneers in this new venture . . . And they bought it."

Initially, says William Hansen, president of the successor school board, parents "had some reservations, and some fears it might affect the kids adversely. There are lots of rumors and misconceptions." "But our board members feel, I think, that this is really a unique approach, and that it has potential. Properly managed and directed, the system can work and be pertinent to this age group."

The three large "pods" or classrooms each serve as a home room for 100 to 125 youngsters, and small to large groups of students at any one time may be having concurrent classes, or little discussion groups will be scattered about in the auditorium or cafeteria area. The fairly constant motion and buzz of sound apparently are not distracting. As Schmidt remarks, "These kids grow up in a culture of sound. Where noise seems to be a problem, we're working on it."

In general, youngsters spend half the day dealing with topics under the broad objective of "Social Sensitivity and Understanding," one-quarter of the day focussing on Understanding the Physical Environment," and a quarter on "Developing Creative Interests and Abilities," with freedom to follow interests in art, music, home economics, and industrial arts. The pupils work regarding basic skills such as reading is individualized. Absenteeism is very low. For a time last year, the school was open seven days a week, at pupils' request, mainly for use of the gym but also for some creative studies and the library. That ended, says Schmidt, when it became too difficult to get enough volunteer supervisors for adequate supervision of activities. Surveys made last fall and again last spring showed a liking for school replacing "fear of new situations and distrust of teachers, with most kids becoming more socially sure of themselves," Strassburg said.

One day, it is toward the end of a social studies class of some 20 seventh graders, and at the edge of the group one dark-haired girl over some disagreement slaps lightly at the face of another girl, who doesn't slap back. The teacher sees but ignores the incident. It is but a small eddy in the wild current of being a child.

Indict Promoter, Union Chief For Kickbacks

By DICK BARNES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The promoter who masterminded loans of millions of Barbers Union pension dollars, some to enterprises controlled by him and a financially plagued DuPont heir, has been indicted along with the union's president on charges of kickback conspiracy.

The pension fund involved in the complex case has ties to one of the biggest personal bankruptcy act cases ever filed, to two other financial scandals and to jailed tax evader Bobby Baker.

And the nearly 60,000 barbers who are members of the pension plan face forecasts that they likely will get little or none of the retirement income they were promised. Both government and private studies say the fund will go broke as presently constituted.

The 36-count indictment was returned Tuesday by a federal grand jury in Chicago and announced by the Justice Department in Washington. It named:

—Thomas A. Shaheen Jr., 38, the pension fund's onetime investment consultant who now lives in London, England.

—Joseph De Paola, Indianapolis, president of the Journey-men Barbers, Hairdressers, Cosmetologists and Proprietors' International Union of America and chairman of its pension fund.

—Max Block Jr., a New York Attorney who worked with Shaheen.

—Columbia Financial Corp. of Chevy Chase, Md., controlled by Shaheen and Block.

The indictment charged all four with conspiring to get kickbacks, fees and commissions from a California land development firm in connection with a loan from the pension fund. It further charged Shaheen, Block and Columbia with conspiring to pay off De Paola in connection with fund loans and charged De Paola with soliciting and receiving $29,000 in fees, kickbacks and commissions.

Shaheen also was charged with getting from the California firm $112,597 in fees and commissions, $25,000 in negotiable notes, two consultant agreements worth $144,000 and 100 acres of land in order to influence his actions as the fund's adviser.

The fund, which once totaled $21 million, made nearly $12 million in mortgage loans during the period Shaheen advised it. Some $7 million of these became delinquent. The fund listed $16 million in assets in its most recent report to the Labor Department.

The breadth of the fund's problems first came to public light last July in a series of Associated Press articles on pension plans.

The Barbers' fund went into business in 1966 and began with conservative investments administered by a bank. Shaheen came onto the scene about a year later and, as its adviser, steered fund money into mortgage loans, some of them to Winthrop Lawrence Corp. or its subsidiaries.

Winthrop Lawrence, named as a co-conspirator in the case at the time was half-owned by Columbia Financial Corp. and half-owned by Lamont du Pont Copeland Jr., son of the board chairman of the giant DuPont Corp.

Copeland Jr. filed last year for reorganization of his financial affairs under the bankruptcy act, listing debts of about $60 million and assets of less than half that total. Soon after, Winthrop Lawrence also filed for reorganization.

Justice Department sources said that based on assurances from Shaheen's attorney, F. Lee Bailey, that Shaheen would be on hand for trial, no formal extradition proceedings were presently planned.

The two other financial scandals linked to Barbers fund loans involve insurance companies—Prudence Mutual Casualty Co. of Chicago and Community National Life Insurance Co. of Tulsa, Okla. Both firms failed under circumstances that brought investigations.

In mid-1970, fulfilling a commitment made previously, the fund made a $200,000 second mortgage loan to a motel project under the direction of Bobby Baker, onetime protege of Lyndon B. Johnson, Baker recently began a jail term for fraud and tax evasion.

Pending in Indianapolis is a civil case brought by several members of the Barbers union, who sued the union to prevent payment of pension fund benefits which were to begin Feb. 1.

A state of Wisconsin examination of the fund filed in connection with the Indianapolis case declared the fund will go broke within 15 years.

It found member contributions were too low and payouts would be too high for the fund to last. Under the basic plan, barbers who pay $5 a month into the fund get $25 monthly checks on retirement.

A private actuary's report included in a Labor Department file on the fund had previously concluded it was actuarially unsound as presently set up. To survive, both reports said, the fund would have to either cut benefits or raise contributions.

Tate Jury Members Go Home

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sharon Tate murder trial jurors have reached the long-awaited day when they return home to the families they left behind seven months ago.

The judge told the jurors Tuesday they could move today from the hotel where they have been sequestered to guard them from possible prejudicial trial publicity. They will return to court daily for the trial's penalty phase, now in progress.

The unexpected order apparently was prompted by complaints by jurors and their families reportedly unhappy when one of their number was released for personal reasons. The others felt their reasons were just as valid.

The judge finally reinstated that juror and excused an alternate who had just joined the jury.

Before the lockup ended, several juror's spouses had told a reporter they were suffering hardships because of the sequestration which began July 14.

Only one spouse, Mrs. John Baer, said she felt the lockup was a necessary precaution and that her husband was "glad to do it."

Mrs. Baer, mother of two teen-agers, said the sequestration, during which families visited on weekends, drew the Baer family closer together because "we had time for talking—no distractions of radio and television or rushing off to committees and such."

Historical Society Recalls Washington's Visit To Ohio

George Washington, whose birthday is observed on Feb. 22, was the first President of the United States to visit the present state of Ohio, according to The Ohio Historical Society.

In October 1770, before either Ohio or the Presidency had been proclaimed, the 35-year-old Washington traveled by canoe down the Ohio River from what is now Pittsburgh to near the location of present-day Gallipolis, Ohio.

Washington, with a party of Virginians and Indians, was inspecting land that he and other Virginians had purchased prior to sending settlers to the west. One of the most aggressive land speculators at that time, Washington hoped to establish a new colony along the south bank of the Ohio River, from east of the Great Kanawha to west of the Kentucky River. His diary on the nine-week trip reveals astute observations of the countryside, Indians and wildlife and notes that many squatters were already "Marking all the Lands that are valuable" in the rich Ohio Valley.

On Oct. 21, when the party crossed what is now the Pennsylvania - Ohio state line, it snowed all night. The next morning the canoes passed Yellow Creek in present Columbiana County and a Mingo town of about 70 warriors located near the present site of Steubenville. This was the only native village of consequence that the party saw along the Ohio.

On Oct. 24, they passed present Bridgeport and camped near Captina Creek in Belmont County. The next day they saw "innumerable quantities of Turkeys, and many Deer watering and browsing on the Shore side, some of which we killed." At camp that night they caught catfish.

Washington's diary comments on the "remarkably crooked" condition of the Ohio, which was "choked up with Fallen Trees, and the bottom of the River next to the Shores rather more Muddy but in general stony as it has been all the way down."

Passing the Three Brothers Islands near present Newport, Ohio, the party camped Oct. 26 at the mouth of Duck Creek. The next day they "came to the Mouth of Muskingham ... This River is about 150 yards wide at the Mouth; a gentle current and clear stream runs out of it, and is navigable a great way into the Country for Canoes."

Later that day they passed the Little Kanawha, the Little Hocking, and Blennerhasset Island, before camping opposite the mouth of the Great Hocking. On Oct. 28 Washington's explorers camped near Long Bottom in present Meigs County, where they paid their respects to the Indian hunting party of Kiashta, who gave them a "Quarter of very fine Buffalo."

Oct. 31, they arrived at the mouth of the Great Kanawha, just four miles above present Gallipolis, where they spent several days exploring the valley for future surveying and settlement. On their return trip they went by river to the Steubenville area, whence they traveled overland to Fort Pitt and then on to Virginia.

Unfortunately, the pleasant and revealing journey was not crowned by success. The Virginians' efforts to establish a permanent colony on the western lands had to be abandoned because of Indian trouble and the Revolution.

Washington, although disappointed in his colonizing efforts, remained one of the most fervent advocates of western settlement. His interest was significant because his knowledge of the trans-Allegheny region surpassed that of most of his contemporaries.

He was one of the first Americans to see the importance of expansion into the Ohio Country and other parts of the west, particularly in those areas he visited 200 years ago, The Ohio Historical Society points out.

In 1964, Watkins was elected vice president-finance of both the C&O and B&O at the age of 38, making him the youngest top flight executive of a major railroad in the country.

Watkins was born at Fern Creek, Ky., near Louisville. He received a bachelor of science degree in accounting from Western Kentucky University at Bowling Green, Ky., and his master of business administration degree from Northwestern University in 1948.

He had several job offers from railroads upon graduation, but chose the C&O, joining the railroad as a staff analyst in the president's office.

The tall, soft-spoken Kentuckian is described by his associates as the kind of person who knows what should be done and does it.

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Everglades," NBC's treatment of that imperiled aquatic world was a nature-lover's and conservationist's dream program Tuesday night.

Much of the program was a leisurely and beautifully filmed inspection of the flora and fauna of the great natural park, from the tiny mosquito larvae to the big blue heron and alligator. It was a vivid way to demonstrate the importance of protecting all the links in the vital food chain by which the creatures survive and multiply.

Hugh Downs' quiet narration insistently pointed to the fragility of the system of survival-how the land must alternately be flooded and dried out and how dependant survival now is on man.

Much of the same material was covered and the same points made in Arthur Godfrey's recent program about the Everglades on ABC. Both emphasized the danger of pollution, from raw sewage, factory wastes, agricultural spraying, construction of homes, roads and jet ports.

As in other documentaries based on ecology, the program made a point of "death without destruction," this time showing a cottonmouth snake, hunting for food, striking at a squirrel and a hungry alligator snapping up a young raccoon which lost its grip on a branch—unpleasant viewing but essential in presenting a realistic picture of that all-important food chain.

"Maybe I'll Come Home in the Spring," ABC's "Movie of the Week" was a devastating indictment, visually interesting and perhaps was helpful in understanding the unbridgeable gap between youth and age. It was the story of a girl, running away from an unsympathetic family, who becomes involved in the hippie world of drugs and irresponsibility. Returning home after a bad experience, she finds her parent's middle-class world still unbearable—and a younger sister on drugs.

There was a particularly lethal portrayal of a boozing adult party, balanced by some grisly scenes of drug-distorted frolics among the hippies.

Fine performances were turned in by Sally Field as the disturbed, searching girl, and Lane Bradbury as her unhappy sister, Jackie Cooper and Eleanor Parker were excellent as the excitable, self-centered parents. It was a story told from one point of view—the girl's. Even if one disagreed with its bias, it made its point and carried a strong punch.

CBS began a two-part series documenting the changing character of the war in Indochina—the shift to Laos and Cambodia at a time when the United States in winding down its involvement in South Vietnam.

Charles Collingwood presided over what was essentially a briefing on the situation. There were interviews with advocates and critics of administration policy. There were maps, aerial film and plenty of film showing the fighting. It was, generally, a calm and fact-filled summary containing little that was new. Part two will pre-empt Jackie Gleason's "Honeymooners" program next Sunday night.

Ohio House Panel Eyes Bill On Parceling Of Revenue

The Circleville Herald, Wed. Feb. 17, 1971 13
Circleville, Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The House Local Government and Urban Affairs Committee opened hearings Tuesday on two bills that would require a municipality collecting an income tax to return at least 25 per cent of it to a taxpayer's legal residence.

Rep. Donald Pease, D-75 Oberlin, speaking for one of the measures, reminded the committee Cleveland has threatened to withdraw from such a voluntary reciprocal arrangement in 1972.

Pease said although the problems, financial and otherwise, of the major urban areas were undeniable, "the small cities have their problems, too."

Pease said it was in the interest of equity that a mandated revenue return plan be adopted.

Rep. George E. Mastics, R-52 Fairview Park, sponsor, said the basic question was one of taxation without representation.

They pay the taxes where they work, he said, but they have no vote on how the money is to be used.

Second hearings will be held on both bills next week.

A joint select committee on domestic relations also laid the groundwork for divorce law reform in the state.

The committee, created by the 108th General Assembly to study Ohio divorce laws, will present sometime before the end of the month two divorce packages to the legislature for consideration.

One would greatly reform present divorce laws. The other would do away with them altogether.

Rep. Alan Norris, R-59 Westerville, said a reform proposal and a "no fault" divorce system would both be presented before the legislature.

Man Wins Discharge From Army

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A 22-year-old Bedford Heights man is at Ft. Knox, Ky., today to be processed for a discharge from the Army after being granted a writ of habeas corpus by U.S. District Judge James C. Connell on a desertion charge.

Randy Powell enlisted three years ago. He had been in Vietnam five months when he was granted a "compassionate reassignment" to the Warrensville Township Nike-Hercules Headquarters last July because his mother was ill. He was assigned to the motor pool at the Nike base as a mechanic.

In August, three weeks before he was scheduled to receive his discharge, Powell and his sergeant became involved in a dispute and the sergeant sent him home.

Powell said that during the next week he tried to get back on the base but failed because the sergeant had left instructions to keep him out.

"I figured maybe I was just dismissed early," Powell said Tuesday. "I thought maybe they didn't want me any more. That was a mistake, I guess."

The FBI arrested Powell in January at the automobile agency where he was employed as a salesman. He had been married less than two months. Powell said the sergeant had sworn out a warrant charging him with desertion.

Tuesday Judge Connell agreed with Powell that it was not his fault and the Army had not notified him of the alleged desertion. The judge granted him a writ of habeas corpus.

Powell went to Ft. Knox Tuesday night and an Army spokesman said he would be processed for discharge within three days.

Pair Wins Passports

MOSCOW (AP) — Leonid Rigerman and his mother, Esther, received their American passports Tuesday culminating a five-month effort to persuade Soviet authorities that they are entitled to American citizenship.

Rigerman, a computer programmer, said he and his mother expect to leave the Soviet Union for New York later this week.

Last December the U.S. State Department declared that Mrs. Rigerman, 61, who was born in Brooklyn, N.Y., was a U.S. citizen although she became a Soviet citizen in 1937 after she came to live here with her Russian-born husband.

The State Department ruled that Leonid Rigerman, born here in 1940, was an American because his parents were. His father, now dead, was a naturalized American before he returned to the Soviet Union.

The Soviets officially consider both Rigerman and his mother to be Soviet citizens. It is not known why the authorities have decided to permit them to leave for the United States.

cause "both camps had some good points to make about divorce law."

Norris, the committee chairman, said the reform package would include expansion of court authority to deal with divorces cases and the creation of new legitimate divorce grounds.

Among those would be the "living apart statute" to allow divorce after two years of separation.

The second proposal, similar to ones in force in Iowa and California abandons the current system of blame and replaces it with a no fault approach.

The two grounds for divorce under a no fault system are incurable insanity and irremed-able breakdown of the marriage.

Settlements follow a 50-50 formula with few exceptions, and alimony, much as now, is based on age, education, circumstances and need.

Norris said the same day the report is presented to the legislature, bills representing each approach to divorce reform would be introduced in both houses of the General Assembly.

Dual Transplant Made At Cincy

CINCINNATI (AP) — Two men, one 37 years old and the other 29, have received a kidney transplant at the University of Cincinnati Medical Center.

The organs were taken from a donor who had recently died and they had been preserved in a special machine donated to the hospital by Ruth Lodge No. 18 of the United Order of True Sisters.

Ohio House Panel Eyes Bill On Parceling Of Revenue

The Circleville Herald, Wed. Feb. 17, 1971 13
Circleville, Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The House Local Government and Urban Affairs Committee opened hearings Tuesday on two bills that would require a municipality collecting an income tax to return at least 25 per cent of it to a taxpayer's legal residence.

Rep. Donald Pease, D-75 Oberlin, speaking for one of the measures, reminded the committee Cleveland has threatened to withdraw from such a voluntary reciprocal arrangement in 1972.

Pease said although the problems, financial and otherwise, of the major urban areas were undeniable, the small cities have their problems, too.

Pease said it was in the interest of equity that a mandated revenue return plan be adopted.

Rep. George E. Mastics, R-52 Fairview Park, sponsor, said the basic question was one of taxation without representation.

They pay the taxes where they work, he said, but they have no vote on how the money is to be used.

Second hearings will be held on both bills next week.

A joint select committee on domestic relations also laid the groundwork for divorce law reform in the state.

The committee, created by the 108th General Assembly to study Ohio divorce laws, will present sometime before the end of the month two divorce packages to the legislature for consideration.

One would greatly reform present divorce laws. The other would do away with them altogether.

Rep. Alan Norris, R-59 Westerville, said a reform proposal and a "no fault" divorce system would both be presented because "both camps had some good points to make about divorce law."

Norris, the committee chairman, said the reform package would include expansion of court authority to deal with divorces cases and the creation of new legitimate divorce grounds.

Among those would be the "living apart statute" to allow divorce after two years of separation.

The second proposal, similar to ones in force in Iowa and California abandons the current system of blame and replaces it with a no fault approach.

The two grounds for divorce under a no fault system are incurable insanity and irremediable breakdown of the marriage.

Settlements follow a 50-50 formula with few exceptions, and alimony, much as now, is based on age, education, circumstances and need.

Norris said the same day the report is presented to the legislature, bills representing each approach to divorce reform would be introduced in both houses of the General Assembly.

Dual Transplant Made At Cincy

CINCINNATI (AP) — Two men, one 37 years old and the other 29, have received a kidney transplant at the University of Cincinnati Medical Center.

The organs were taken from a donor who had recently died and they had been preserved in a special machine donated to the hospital by Ruth Lodge No. 18 of the United Order of True Sisters.

Man Wins Discharge From Army

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A 22-year-old Bedford Heights man is at Ft. Knox, Ky., today to be processed for a discharge from the Army after being granted a writ of habeas corpus by U.S. District Judge James C. Connell on a desertion charge.

Randy Powell enlisted three years ago. He had been in Vietnam five months when he was granted a "compassionate reassignment" to the Warrensville Township Nike-Hercules Headquarters last July because his mother was ill. He was assigned to the motor pool at the Nike base as a mechanic.

In August, three weeks before he was scheduled to receive his discharge, Powell and his sergeant became involved in a dispute and the sergeant sent him home.

Powell said that during the next week he tried to get back on the base but failed because the sergeant had left instructions to keep him out.

"I figured maybe I was just dismissed early," Powell said Tuesday. "I thought maybe they didn't want me any more. That was a mistake, I guess."

The FBI arrested Powell in January at the automobile agency where he was employed as a salesman. He had been married less than two months. Powell said the sergeant had sworn out a warrant charging him with desertion.

Tuesday Judge Connell agreed with Powell that it was not his fault and the Army had not notified him of the alleged desertion. The judge granted him a writ of habeas corpus.

Powell went to Ft. Knox Tuesday night and an Army spokesman said he would be processed for discharge within three days.

Pair Wins Passports

MOSCOW (AP) — Leonid Rigerman and his mother, Esther, received their American passports Tuesday culminating a five-month effort to persuade Soviet authorities that they are entitled to American citizenship.

Rigerman, a computer programmer, said he and his mother expect to leave the Soviet Union for New York later this week.

Last December the U.S. State Department declared that Mrs. Rigerman, 61, who was born in Brooklyn, N.Y., was a U.S. citizen although she became a Soviet citizen in 1937 after she came to live here with her Russian-born husband.

The State Department ruled that Leonid Rigerman, born here in 1940, was an American because his parents were. His father, now dead, was a naturalized American before he returned to the Soviet Union.

The Soviets officially consider both Rigerman and his mother to be Soviet citizens. It is not known why the authorities have decided to permit them to leave for the United States.

Veterinarian's Pet Winner Of Westminster Dog Show

NEW YORK (AP) — The next time Dr. Milton E. Prickett brings his pet dog to a veterinary science class at the University of Kentucky, his students probably will gape in awe.

"Yes," said Dr. Prickett today, "I bring D.J. to class once in a while with me."

Dr. Prickett, a 40-year-old assistant professor of veterinary science at the university, was referring to Ch. Chino's Adamant James, an English springer spaniel, who captured dogdom's most important championship—best-in-show at the Westminster Kennel Club event in Madison Square Garden Tuesday night.

"I call him D.J.," said Dr. Prickett, whose wife also is a veterinarian. "He sleeps under my desk and I received him as a present from my wife and three children two years ago."

Clint Harris handled D.J. in the show, just as he has through most of the dog's career.

"I was a little nervous," said Harris. "He fell on the mat during the sporting group judging and I was fearful that his knee would tighten up."

But it didn't and the judge of the final, O.C. Harriman of Pebble Beach, Calif., required only 13 minutes to make up his mind. There is no second place in the final judging. The pooch wins it all or nothing.

"The English springer spaniel is a nearly perfect dog," said Harris. "I'd love to take him home with me. He is a wonderful dog in every way. It was a lovely class."

D.J. was not exactly an outsider considering the fact that he took three bests on the recent Florida circuit and beat out more than 3,000 rivals in the Philadelphia Kennel Club Show two months ago.

Yet many of the experts thought that the favorite's role would go to the Norwegian elkhound Ch. Vin Melca's Vagabond, owned and handled by Patricia V. Craige of Monterey, Calif., the hound winner.

Vagabond was the top winning dog in the country last year and going into the 95th edition of Westminster, had shown no signs of slipping. Harriman gave him some attention, but he couldn't take his eyes off D.J.

The others in the final were:

Ch. Pavo de la Steingasse, a standard poodle owned by Margaret S. Smith of Dallas, the working group victor.

Ch. O'Connell Kerry Oaks, a Kerry blue sent in by Florence Coe of Atherton, Calif., the terrier winner.

Ch. Duke's Lil Red Baron O'kala, a Pomeranian entered by Mrs. Joyce Graves of Cypress, Tex., who triumphed in the top group.

Ch. Tally-Ho Tiffany, a miniature poodle sent in by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dale of Calabasas, Calif., the nonsporting winner.

End To Space Program Urged By Ex-Interior Chief

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Ending the U.S. space program was urged Tuesday by Stewart L. Udall, former U.S. secretary of the interior, and Milton S. Eisenhower, brother of late President Dwight D. Eisenhower, to provide more money for socially-oriented domestic programs.

Their comments came in the Cleveland Clinic's 50th anniversary sary symposium after Columbia University economist Raymond J. Saulnier said the costs of improved education, health care, pollution control, housing, welfare and crime prevention might mean taxes of up to 40 per cent of the average person's income.

Eisenhower said the proposed programs would not necessarily represent higher costs than the present federal budget since some savings could be provided by a shifting of national priorities.

"An end to the space program would give us $3 billion a year," said Eisenhower, "agriculture supports could be cut by $4 billion, and an end to the Vietnam war and a reduction of the military budget would provide $25 billion."

Udall said scientists believe the moon has offered new clues to the age of the solar system, "but I think we now need to look for answers to problems much closer to home."

He also said that part of the increased bill for the programs could be reduced by more efficiency and by Americans adopting a Spartan standard of living.

"At least a quarter of electricity is wasted today, and perhaps a half of our travel is frivolous," he said.

Also taking part in the symposium was Nobel Prize-winning geneticist Dr. George W. Beadle of the University of Chicago.

NCR Elections Slated In Week

CINCINNATI (AP) — The American Arbitration Association here has worked out a representation election for 12,000 employees of the National Cash Register Co.

Workers will vote Feb. 23 at NCR's main operations in Dayton and at its plant in Morrow. Employees at the Washington Court House plant will vote Feb. 24.

They will decide whether to continue to be represented by the NCR Independent Union, or choose locals of the United Auto Workers, International Union of Engineers, or International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers as their representative.

Girl, Boy Rob Bank

GREENVILLE, Ohio (AP) — A young girl and a boy were being held today in connection with a robbery at the Farmers State Bank in nearby New Madison in which seven employees were herded into the vault.

FBI agents said charges were expected to be filed against the youths. Their ages and addresses were not released.

The two were arrested Tuesday only minutes after the bank was robbed of $5,000.

Agents said that the girl entered the bank, pulled out a gun and handed a note to the teller. After ordering the employees into the vault, the girl rifled cash drawers, agents said.

As she fled, Richard Shives, bank vice president and one of the seven directed into the vault, gave chase along with bank customers and the girl was apprehended. The money was also recovered.

Senator Calls For Probe Of Stans-Penn Central Link

WASHINGTON (AP) — A member of the Senate Commerce Committee has called for immediate hearings into Secretary of Commerce Maurice H. Stans' interest in a major Penn Central subsidiary and his role in government efforts to shore up the failing railroad.

Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., urged convening of the committee "at the earliest possible date to hear Secretary Stans' explanation of matters which on their fact seem to indicate a strong possibility of impropriety."

Hartke is third-ranking Democrat on the committee which approved Stans' cabinet appointment in January 1969.

Hartke commented in a statement following disclosures by The Associated Press that Stans owned $318,000 worth of stock in Great Southwest Corp. on June 12, 1970, at the time his department was involved in administration plans to grant Penn Central $200 million in federal loan guarantees.

The railroad, which owns 90 per cent of Great Southwest, filed for bankruptcy after the administration decided against the loan guarantees.

"The facts of the matter appear to be these," Hartke said. "At the time of his confirmation hearings Mr. Stans held either personally or in partnership approximately 38,000 shares of stock in Great Southwest ... but he did not reveal these holdings in a financial statement he submitted to the committee."

At the same time, Hartke said, "Mr. Stans assured us that he would put all of his holdings into a so-called blind trust—that is, a trust the transactions and value of which he would have no knowledge."

"Apparently, however, that blind trust had eyes, for Secretary Stans revealed, no doubt inadvertently, to an Associated Press reporter knowledge of transactions that occurred nine months later," Hartke said.

The senator noted the value of Stans' investment in Great Southwest had gone from $570,000 in January 1969 to $318,000 in June 1970 and now—if he still holds the shares—to about $114,000.

It could not be learned whether Stans still has an interest in Great Southwest, a Texas real estate firm.

Suspect Faces Psychiatric Tests

CINCINNATI (AP) — A Courier Tech High School pupil, charged in the clubbing death of another student there, will undergo physical and mental examinations.

The tests were ordered Tuesday for Guy Thompson, 17, of Cincinnati by Judge Benjamin Schwartz of the Hamilton County Juvenile Court. Schwartz also continued a hearing for Thompson until Feb. 23.

Thompson is charged as a juvenile with first-degree manslaughter in the Jan. 24 death of Steven Howarth, 16, of Cincinnati. Howarth was hit on the head with a baseball bat when a car load of youths drove by where he had been waiting for a bus.

four Cobras and four Slicks went down, two Cobras destroyed, two pilots missing, and two hospitalized.

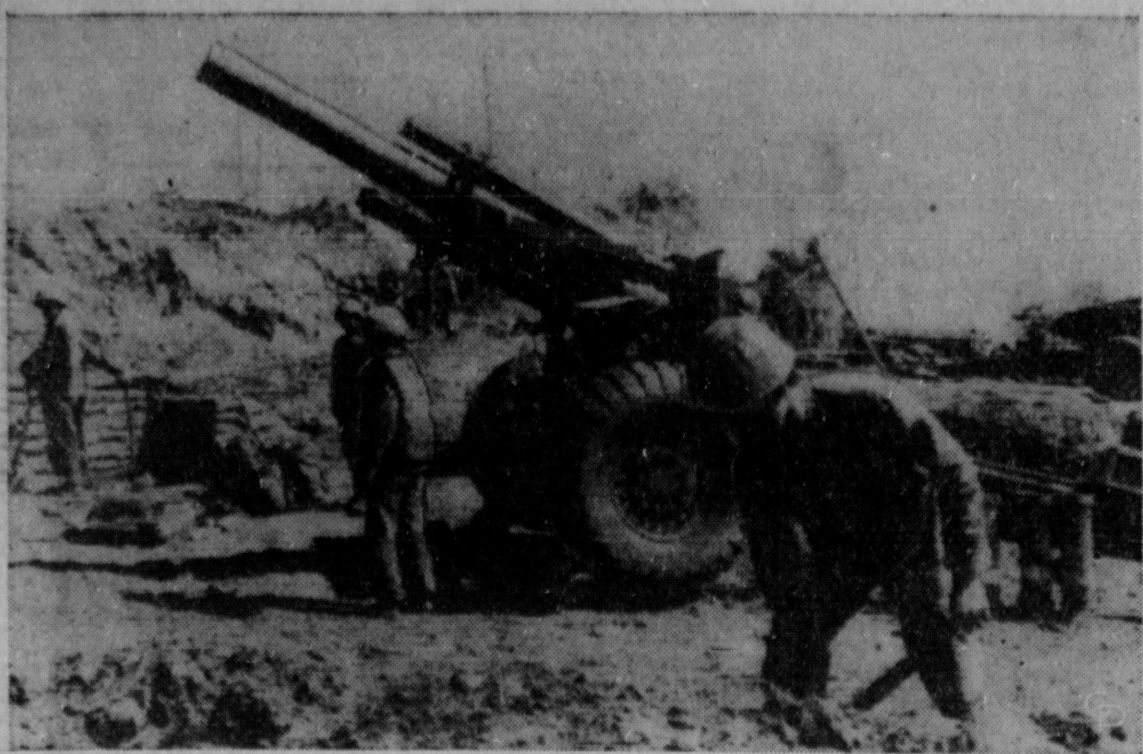

That was the day when Newman couldn't find a clearing big enough to land and pick up his wounded gunship pilots, so he went into the jungle instead, clipping the treetops with his rotor blades, while a cable was lowered, then nursing the damaged ship back to Khe Sanh with the wounded men aboard.

The next day Capt. Chuck Vehlou, a 25-year-old West Pointer from Waukesha, Wis., took a .51-caliber slug in his Cobra's rocket pod and they had to call the demolition squad to disarm his pod.

That day also, CWO Robert Pascoe, Phoenix, Ariz., was flying scout for the Cobras

1,100 Americans In Jail Abroad; Most Drug Cases

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department says 1,100 Americans are in jail abroad, more than 700 of them on drug charges, and there is little that can be done for them.

When a U.S. citizen is picked up by police in a foreign country, the consul visits him in jail, helps him obtain a lawyer and communicate with his family, may attend the trial and tries to insure fair treatment, said Barbara M. Watson, administrator of the Bureau of Security and Consular Affairs.

"This does not mean fair treatment by American due-process standards, but rather by a somewhat vague standard of accepted international practice," she told the International Aviation Club Tuesday.

"Many Americans seem to believe that because they are Americans they should be immune from arrest when they violate a foreign law, particularly when there is no similar law in this country," Miss Watson said.

Colorful 'Queen Mother' Indira Gandhi's Opponent

By JACK DAVIS

JAIPUR, India (AP) — A white jeep decked with marigolds bounces into a village, and the aristocratic lady politician steps out into the dust and the crowd.

Old women wearing silver bracelets and brilliant yellow cotton shawls bow reverently to touch her feet. Swarms of children express their excitement more noisily.

Barefoot farmers in pink turbans promise their votes even before she begins a dignified campaign pitch.

Speaking in simple Hindi, she says the troubles of these people is the fault of that other Indian lady, Prime Minister Indira Gandhi.

This elegant woman is Gayatri Devi, Maharani of the late Maharaja of Jaipur, and now the Rajmata, "the queen mother."

She is campaigning to retain her seat in Parliament, in the elections set for the first week of March.

As a leader of the non-servative Swatantra party, Gayatri Devi is one of the strongest candidates among the forces trying to deprive Mrs. Gandhi's Congress party of the majority it needs to rule effectively.

The Rajmata, at 51, is two years younger than Mrs. Gandhi. Both have entered political maturity with grace, vigor and popularity.

Long before Mrs. Gandhi was introduced to the world as India's woman prime minister, Gayatri Devi was well known outside the country as one of the world's most beautiful women—a princess of Cooch Bihar who had killed 25 tigers before her 25th birthday, and who had married one of India's ablest and wealthiest maharajas.

She entered politics in 1962, when she was elected to Parliament. She easily won re-election in 1967.

Mrs. Gandhi's sudden call in December for new elections came in the middle of the Rajmata's year of official mourning for her husband. The maharaja died last June in England, stricken by a heart attack while playing polo.

At the end of January, the Rajmata said: "I was still hoping that someone else would contest from this district." But the Swatantra party insisted she was the only strong candidate, and also could foot the campaign bill.

Her last hesitations ended with a meeting of local priests, who gave her the theological go-ahead.

A number of former princes and their wives have entered races for Parliament this time, angered by Mrs. Gandhi's attempts in the past year to remove their constitutional privileges and privy purses.

The Rajmata's campaign staff reminds the people of Jaipur district that there were no taxes, little theft and lower prices in the years before Indian independence when her husband reigned benevolently.

All over the district are symbols of the past—the massive pink walls of the royal city, and the palaces and hilltop forts that the Rajmata's family still own and use.

Newsman Goes Before Crime Probe

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A veteran Cleveland sports-writer was among seven persons appearing Tuesday before a special federal grand jury here investigating organized gambling.

At least two of the witnesses reportedly refused to answer questions from the jury, seeking immunity under the Fifth Amendment of the Constitution.

Dan Taylor, a sportswriter for the Cleveland Press, was asked about his acquaintance with Joseph J. Lanese, whose home in Euclid was raided by the FBI in December. He said he had known Lanese for about 20 years but did not associate with him.

Robert D. Gary and Roger McRoberts, prosecutors for the U.S. Department of Justice strike force against organized crime, played tape recordings of Taylor giving Lanese information about football results. The recordings were made in November by FBI agents by means of a wiretap on Lanese's telephone.

The relaying of sports information is not against the law and is a regular service of the Cleveland Press and The Plain Dealer.

Taylor told the grand jury he did not know how Lanese was using the information he gave him.

When they violate a foreign law, particularly when there is no similar law in this country," Miss Watson said.

"They are often surprised to learn that very likely they will not be entitled to a trial by jury, or to confront witnesses against them or to exercise various other rights that are basic under our legal system."

"The American who runs afoul of the law while abroad may well find himself detained for many months without bail while his case is being investigated and before formal charges are lodged."

"On the other hand, once the investigation is completed he may well find that his trial is much too speedy for his taste."

"He may have only a few days to prepare his defense. His trial will rarely last more than one day, and any appeal he takes will probably be decided within the week."

Miss Watson said Americans generally receive equal or better treatment in foreign courts than the nationals of that country or other aliens.

Often they receive lighter sentences and better jail accommodations, she said.

In Turkey, however, possession of a pipeful of hashish can bring a minimum of three years imprisonment, she said. Other countries also have started cracking down hard on drug offenses.

"We have tried in many ways to warn Americans going abroad that, rather than a narcotic nirvana, several years in an ancient and crowded prison may await them," she said.

Ohio Solons Eye Pay Increase This Session

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Speculation increased Tuesday that Ohio legislators, already paid $12,750 a year, will try for a pay increase during the 109th General Assembly session.

Rep. Patrick A. Sweeney, D-47 Cleveland, during House debate on a revenue sharing resolution, told legislators, "We are overworked and underpaid, and I think we will be able to correct that, too."

Rumors of a pay hike request have been circulating around the Statehouse since the beginning of the session, but Sweeney denied he knew of any such proposals scheduled to be introduced.

"I was just trying to encourage the speaker Charles Kurfess, Perrysburg Republican," he smiled.

Questions Taxpayers Ask

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q. I need more tax forms. Where can I get them?

A. Any local IRS office should have the forms you need. Many banks and post offices also stock the most frequently used forms.

To avoid processing and refund delays, don't forget to take the name label off the cover of your 1040 tax package and put it on the form 1040 you file.

Q. Will any IRS office compute my tax for me?

A. No, the tax computation is done at the IRS regional service center where the returns are processed. If you wish to have the IRS compute your tax, complete all the appropriate lines on your return and then mail it to IRS as you have in the past. Be sure to attach all necessary schedules. Only those who have $20,000 or less income consisting of salaries, wages, dividends, interest, pension or annuities and claim the standard deduction, qualify to have IRS compute their tax. If you meet these requirements and are entitled to a retirement income credit, follow the instructions at the top of Schedule R, attach it to your return, and the credit will be computed by IRS.

Q. I'm taking care of my mother's tax return this year. What special benefits is she entitled to by being over 65?

A. The tax benefits for older Americans are explained in a free booklet by that name which is available at IRS offices. Send a post card to your District Director and ask for Publication 554.

Q. I was out of work several months last year and received unemployment benefits. Do I have to include them with the rest of my income?

A. No, unemployment benefits are not taxable and do not have to be reported.

Q. My son now buys most of his clothes with what he makes on his after school job. Will this cause any change in his dependency status?

A. If you are referring to the support test, the fact your son buys his own clothes will probably not disqualify him.

Included in support are food, medical and educational expenses as well as clothing. If you provide more than half the cost of these items, your son will still qualify as your dependent under the support test.

Q. Which of my home expenses can I deduct?

A. Homeowners may deduct the real estate taxes paid on their property and the interest portion of mortgage payments. Utility costs, repair and maintenance expenses are not deductible.

Improvements to a home or property are considered capital expenditures and may be added to the property's basis.

Q. I got a statement from my bank showing how much my savings account earned last year. Should I send it in with my 1040?

A. No, the statement is only for your records. The bank has also sent the IRS a copy.

If your total interest income in 1970 was under $100 just enter it on line 14 of your Form 1040. If it was over $100, itemize using Schedule B and enter the total on line 14.

Q. My husband and I work and we pay a neighbor to take care of our children after school. Can we deduct this?

A. It may qualify as a child care expense which is deductible under certain conditions. The amount of the deduction is a maximum of $600 for one dependent, or $900 for two or more dependents.

This deduction is explained on Pages 8 and 9 of the Form 1040 instructions. If you qualify, don't forget to complete Form 2441 and send it in with your Form 1040.

Q. I report tips to my employer but I don't see them entered separately on my W-2. Should I add the tips to the amount of my wages shown?

A. No, if you reported tip income to your employer he has included them with your other wages. Therefore, you should not enter tips as a separate item.

Only if tip income has not been reported to your employer should it be added to your wages and salaries.

Q. Who can file as head of household?

A. Several types of taxpayers may qualify for the special head of household tax rates. They include taxpayers who maintain a household for someone else,

GOP Leaders Blast Tax Reform Plans

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Republican State Chairman John S. Andrews said Tuesday no new state taxes should be imposed until there is a full and complete discussion of actual need.

Andrews met with Republican legislative leaders at a breakfast to get what he called a briefing on pending legislation and on bills before the General Assembly.

He said Gov. John J. Gilligan's Task Force on Tax Reform has made a lot of recommendations on how to raise new money. "Except for a few generalities, we have yet to hear the first word about needs from the new administration," he said.

Andrews said the Republican majority in the legislature "is not about to buy a pig in a poke. They are going to take a very close look at the governor's taxing and spending proposals. He's not going to get a blank check."

Gilligan, Andrews said, has deplored the fact that Ohio has the lowest taxes of any industrial state.

"But I see no reason why we should be in a hurry to out-tax or out-spend other states," he added. "It's obviously going to be the Republican's job for the next four years to see to it that spending is kept at sensible levels."

Senate Majority Leader Theodore M. Gray, R-3 Piqua, said the task force recommendations for a statewide personal income tax and a tax on corporate income were "not unexpected."

"I was surprised that it didn't provide for any reduction in real property taxes," Gray said. Gray noted that the need is yet to be defined by the governor.

Gilligan said earlier he would not be bound by task force recommendations.

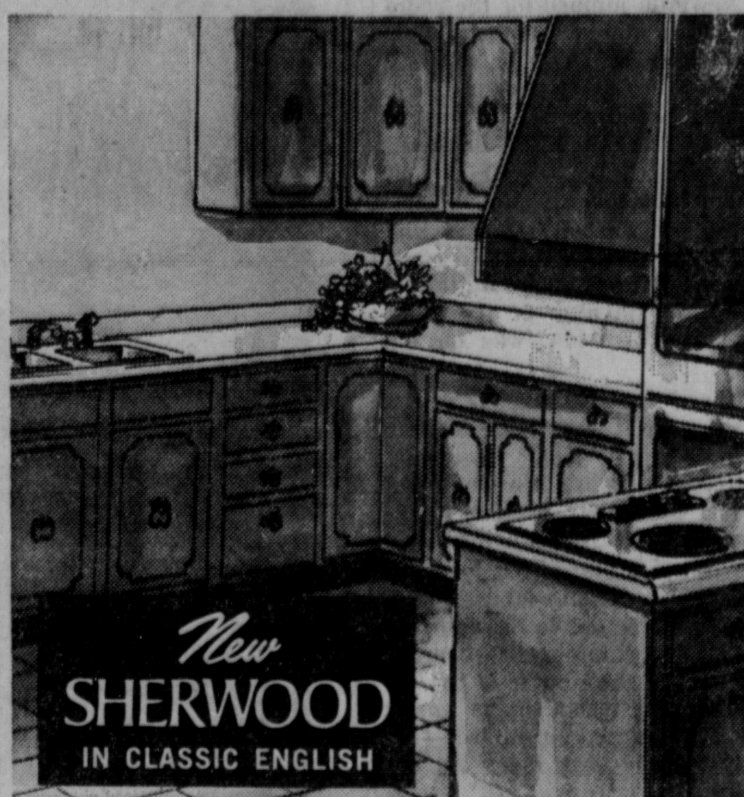

widows and widowers, and married persons living apart.

Details on who qualifies as a head of household are given on Page 4 of the 1040 instructions.

Fred Jacoby Back In Ohio As MAC Chief

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Fred Jacoby, Wisconsin State University Conference commissioner, will return to Ohio to become the third commissioner of the Mid-American Conference. Jacoby, 43, an Ohio State graduate who spent several seasons coaching high school sports in Ohio, will replace Bob James, who takes over as Atlantic Coast Conference commissioner March 1. A native of Logan, Ohio, Jacoby was selected from three nominees by the Mid-American's Council of Presidents. James has served as the Mid-American leader since 1964 when he replaced Dr. David Reese. Reese, a Dayton dentist, had been parttime commissioner since the league's inception in 1946.

"I have known many of the MAC personnel, particularly coaches, for a number of years and have found them to be outstanding people," said Jacoby, who has been commissioner of the Wisconsin league since 1966. "In fact, one of the deciding factors in my decision was the quality of MAC personnel. I was most impressed by the presidents, faculty representatives and athletic directors," he said. As Wisconsin Conference commissioner, Jacoby coordinated a nine-school league with 10 sports. He brings 23 years of experience in athletics to his new assignment. An injury in his freshman year cut short Jacoby's dreams of playing football for Ohio State. He obtained a bachelor's degree in physical education at Ohio State in 1948 and a master's degree at the University of Wisconsin in 1953. His high school coaching stops were at Bremen and Washington Court House in Ohio and Madison West in Wisconsin before he became an eight-year Wisconsin football assistant coach.

Driving Golf Ball On Moon Fine, But How About Putts?

NEW YORK (AP) — Driving a golf ball on the moon would be very exhilarating but putting would drive you crazy, the former administrator of the national Aeronautics and Space Administration says. "There would be a lot of seven and eight-putt greens and no green to putt on," Dr. Thomas Paine added. "It would be almost impossible to sink a putt on the moon. It would be like putting underwater."

Dr. Payne described possible golf on the moon after receiving a trophy from the Metropolitan Golf Writers Association in the name of astronaut Capt. Alan B. Shepard Jr., the first man to hit a golf ball on the lunar surface. Shepard, in quarantine, was unable to accept the award in person. The hastily conceived award was called the "Mulligan Trophy," named for the practice common to duffers taking a second shot off the tee after muffing the first.

Shepard, using a six-iron head attached to one of his craft's instruments, took two swings on the moon and commented afterwards:

"It goes miles and miles." Dr. Paine, who oversaw all manned flights to the moon prior to leaving NASA last year for a vice presidency with General Electric, said Shepard did not exaggerate too much.

"You can figure that the ball will travel six times as far as it would on Earth because the gravity is one-sixth that of the gravity on this planet," the aeronautics expert explained. "The ball would fly straight and far and it would be impossible to slice or hook because there is no resistance. "Also, the surface of the moon is like small beads. The ball, once it has landed, would hit and bounce for many more yards, so one can get a great deal of distance." This, however, would be all the fun that a golfer could derive from an excursion to the moon, Paine said. "When you start to putt, the ball would do all sorts of crazy things and likely would skid and

Mike Pusateri Wins Middleweight Bout

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Mike Pusateri of Boston won a unanimous 10-round decision over former middleweight contender Doyle Baird of Akron Tuesday night at the Cleveland Arena. It was Baird's third loss within a year. Pusateri had Baird in trouble in the fourth round and knocked him down in the seventh, one of the few times in Baird's career that he has ever been on the floor.

Boosters Meeting The Circleville Booster Club will hold a meeting at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the high school cafeteria.

The surprising Badgers were ahead 41-39 at intermission and had a 54-45 advantage in the second period before OSU started coming back.

"They hung in there when they were 11 points down," said Coach Fred Taylor. "When one thing goes well, something else seems to."

He said 7-foot-center Luke Witte "started clearing the defensive boards and our whole defense seemed to pick up."

The victory solidified Ohio State's hold on second place in the Big Ten standings at 7-1. Michigan (7-0) is on top.

Clarence Sherrod, Wisconsin's all-time scoring leader, paced the Badgers with 23 points.

The loss was the Badgers' fifth straight and sixth in seven league starts.

In other Ohio college basketball action Tuesday night, Ohio Conference leader Wooster won its 18th straight game by whipping Denison 95-77.

Wooster could win the league title in an encounter next Saturday night with defending champion Capital, which has one loss.

And the Royal and Ancient Club of St. Andrews, Scotland, militant guardian of the sport, said Shepard should be penalized for not replacing his divot.

"This is a violation of ethics," the R and A insisted.

But it was Bob Hope, the comedian, golfer and golf promoter, who summed up the meaning of Shepard's feat to the average Earthbound duffer.

"I always wondered what was wrong with my golf," Hope said. "Now I know—it's gravity!"

St. Ignatius Faces Tech In Cleveland

Shepard said he was given three golf balls by his club pro back in Houston. "Strubing said, 'That's a violation of the rules. That makes him a professional.'"

And the Royal and Ancient Club of St. Andrews, Scotland, militant guardian of the sport, said Shepard should be penalized for not replacing his divot.

But it was Bob Hope, the comedian, golfer and golf promoter, who summed up the meaning of Shepard's feat to the average Earthbound duffer.

"I always wondered what was wrong with my golf," Hope said. "Now I know—it's gravity!"

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our darling wife, mother and grandmother, Mrs.
Hilda M. Mann, who was called away one year ago today to be with her Saviour the one she loved so much and served so faithfully.
We miss her more than words can ever tell.
Servant of God well done.
Thy glorious warfare's past;
The battle's fought, the race is won,
And thou art crowned at last.
Husband Rev. Ray Mann & family

Tennessee State Beats Oglethorpe

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
"If I did this in Nashville, they'd run me outa town," Ed Martin grinned.
The fact that his Tennessee State basketball team beat Oglethorpe Tuesday night wasn't enough to raise any eyebrows. The Tigers, ranked sixth in The Associated Press College Division poll have won all but one of 14 games this season.
But 7-4?
"I kept reading in the papers where Tommy Norwood was encouraging people to come out and watch us play," Martin said

of the Oglethorpe coach. "Then he wouldn't let us."
It was believed to be the lowest scoring collegiate game in modern history, the result of Oglethorpe's deliberate deep-freeze.
It was an attempt to prevent a repeat of the laughter earlier this year when the Tigers demolished Oglethorpe 82-43—and Norwood was amazed that he nearly pulled it off.
"I was flabbergasted," he said. "They didn't come out to get us."
In Tuesday night's more conventional games, Ohio State, rated No. 20 in the major college poll, rallied to beat Wisconsin 79-71, Texas Tech ran away from Texas 70-55, Purdue ripped Illinois 73-70, Indiana routed Michigan State 90-76, Duke coasted by Davidson 64-55 and Georgetown edged Boston College 67-66.

Tennessee State "raced" to a 2-0 lead in the opening seconds on Lloyd Neal's basket, then sat back while Oglethorpe played slowdown for nearly 16 minutes before a bad pass gave the Tigers the ball which Ron Dorsey converted into a 4-0 halftime lead.

"Talk about cold—this was a deep, deep freeze," the Tennessee State coach said. "I'll tell you, there was a lot of ice out there... but when we got those four points, I knew the pressure was on them. So we just sat back and waited."
The Atlanta school took the second-half tip-off and held the ball for nearly 17 minutes before Terry Shell's field goal cut the Tigers' lead in half. But three Tennessee State free throws in the closing minutes wrapped it up while Oglethorpe managed only a basket by Larry Walker.

"This is the first time I've been involved in a game like this," Martin said—but Norwood is no stranger to such goings on. He played for Oglethorpe when the team beat Jacksonville 30-14—after going in the dressing room at halftime with a scoreless tie.
Wisconsin surprised Ohio State by taking a 41-39 halftime lead. Then, after the Badgers widened the margin to 54-45, Allen Hornyak went to work, hitting 17 of his game-high 26 points as the Buckeyes charged back.
Texas Tech and Texas were deadlocked 49-49 midway in the second half before the Longhorns fell apart, failing to score for nearly nine minutes as Tech ran up a 62-49 lead. Greg Lowry of the Red Raiders and Jimmy Blacklock of Texas shared scoring honors with 20 apiece.
Purdue's Dennis Gamauf put the Boilermakers ahead of Illinois to stay 69-68 with a basket in the fading minutes, then sealed the triumph with four free throws.

Lee Trevino Man To Beat At Tucson

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Lee Trevino, who seems to have an affinity for the Tucson National Golf Club, ranks as the man to beat in the $110,000 Tucson Open Golf Tournament.
The flamboyant Trevino, who topped the 1970 money-winning list and won the Vardon Trophy for the best stroke average, always is high among the contenders, and has a little something extra going for him here.
The happy-go-lucky Mexican-American has won this event the last two years and is favored to make it three in a row.
"I don't know," Trevino said. "Maybe it's just my part of the country. We're pretty near the border, you know."

Trevino faces a surprisingly strong field in the 72-hole event that begins Thursday on the 7,305-yard par 72 Tucson National Course, a relatively flat, wide-open layout hacked out of the desert. Sponsors were, at one time, extremely concerned about the class of the 144-man field, with many of the top names in the game taking off to rest and practice for next week's PGA National Championship in Florida.
But half of the 16 men who won over $100,000 last year are in the field along with the two hottest players on the tour this year, Tom Shaw and Miller Barber.

Mets Face 3rd Base Problems

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
The revolving door that has posed as third base for the New York Mets ever since they began operations nine adventurous seasons ago, will make another spin this spring.
The Mets have employed 43 men at third base over those nine seasons and now Nos. 44 and 45 are getting ready to join the always expanding club.
New York learned Tuesday that Wayne Garrett, the more-or-less regular third baseman last season, will be occupied with the United States Army when the fun and games season starts. Garrett is serving his National Guard active duty commitment at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., which is a considerable distance west of Shea Stadium.
That means the Mets' third base job is up for grabs again. Bidding this time will be journeyman Bob Aspromonte, acquired from Atlanta in December and rookies Ted Martinez and Tim Foli. Aspromonte and Martinez will be Nos. 44 and 45 in the third base sweepstakes. Foli, up for a look last fall, was No. 43 and so does not qualify for a fresh number this time around.
Garrett batted .254 with 12 homers and 45 runs batted in last season. The Mets don't expect him to be available before August 1 this year.
While the Mets' third base situation became their first problem of the training season, other clubs are busy signing some pretty competent infielders to new contracts.
Boston got Rico Petrocelli's signature on a two-year pact worth $70,000 per year. Petrocelli showed up in camp Tuesday with the early Red Sox arrivals to start working at third base, a new position for him. Rico is shifting over to make room for newly-acquired Luis Aparicio.
Shortstop Jim Fregosi agreed to terms with the California Angels, autographing a $75,000 contract.

Bucks Wallop Buffalo Braves; Win 135-103

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The new Buffalo Braves battled the powerful Milwaukee Bucks almost on even terms for three quarters. But the rules call for four periods and that was one too many for the Braves.

The Braves trailed only 96-93 after three quarters of their National Basketball Association game Tuesday night, but they lost 135-103 as they scored only 10 points in the final period and were outscored 21-2 by the Bucks in the closing minutes.

Lew Alcindor led Milwaukee with 38 points, four more than Buffalo's Donnie May.

In other NBA action Los Angeles beat the New York Knicks 130-115, Cincinnati topped Portland 109-102, Chicago bombed Atlanta 118-102, Detroit drubbed Baltimore 110-95 and Phoenix edged Boston 119-116 in a day game.

Denver outlasted Memphis 125-120 in the only American Basketball Association game.

The Lakers, behind at the half 57-54, went on a 21-4 spree at the end of the third period and broke loose on a 16-2 blitz early in the last period, to beat the Knicks. Jerry West led the attack with 31 points, hitting seven baskets in a row in the third period.

Willis Reed, returning to the line-up after a two-game layoff because of his knee trouble, paced the Knicks with 23 points.

Dave DeBusschere of the Knicks scored the 10,000th point of his NBA career on a short jumper with eight minutes left. The game was stopped and Elgin Baylor of the Lakers presented him with the ball.

Cincinnati snapped a seven-game losing streak and broke Portland's five-game winning string. Tom Van Arsdale topped the Royals with 29 points while Geoff Petrie was high for the Trail Blazers with 31.

Tennessee State Beats Oglethorpe

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

"If I did this in Nashville, they'd run me outa town," Ed Martin grinned.

The fact that his Tennessee State basketball team beat Oglethorpe Tuesday night wasn't enough to raise any eyebrows. The Tigers, ranked sixth in the Associated Press College Division poll have won all but one of 14 games this season.

But 7-4?

"I kept reading in the papers where Tommy Norwood was encouraging people to come out and watch us play," Martin said of the Oglethorpe coach. "Then he wouldn't let us."

It was believed to be the lowest scoring collegiate game in modern history, the result of Oglethorpe's deliberate deep-freeze.

It was an attempt to prevent a repeat of the laughter earlier this year when the Tigers demolished Oglethorpe 82-43—and Norwood was amazed that he nearly pulled it off.

"I was flabbergasted," he said. "They didn't come out to get us."

In Tuesday night's more conventional games, Ohio State, rated No. 20 in the major college poll, rallied to beat Wisconsin 79-71, Texas Tech ran away from Texas 70-55, Purdue ripped Illinois 73-70, Indiana routed Michigan State 90-76, Duke coasted by Davidson 64-55 and Georgetown edged Boston College 67-66.

Tennessee State "raced" to a 2-0 lead in the opening seconds on Lloyd Neal's basket, then sat back while Oglethorpe played slowdown for nearly 16 minutes before a bad pass gave the Tigers the ball which Ron Dorsey converted into a 4-0 halftime lead.

"Talk about cold—this was a deep, deep freeze," the Tennessee State coach said. "I'll tell you, there was a lot of ice out there... but when we got those four points, I knew the pressure was on them. So we just sat back and waited."

The Atlanta school took the second-half tip-off and held the ball for nearly 17 minutes before Terry Shell's field goal cut the Tigers' lead in half. But three Tennessee State free throws in the closing minutes wrapped it up while Oglethorpe managed only a basket by Larry Walker.

"This is the first time I've been involved in a game like this," Martin said—but Norwood is no stranger to such goings on. He played for Oglethorpe when the team beat Jacksonville 30-14—after going in the dressing room at halftime with a scoreless tie.

Wisconsin surprised Ohio State by taking a 41-39 halftime lead. Then, after the Badgers widened the margin to 54-45, Allen Hornyak went to work, hitting 17 of his game-high 28 points as the Buckeyes charged back.

Texas Tech and Texas were deadlocked 49-49 midway in the second half before the Longhorns fell apart, failing to score for nearly nine minutes as Tech ran up a 62-49 lead. Greg Lowry of the Red Raiders and Jimmy Blacklock of Texas shared scoring honors with 20 apiece.

Purdue's Dennis Gamauf put the Boilermakers ahead of Illinois to stay 69-68 with a basket in the fading minutes, then sealed the triumph with four free throws.

Indiana used a zone press on defense to break Michigan State's slowdown offense and George McGinnis' 37 points to run away from the Spartans.

Davidson led Duke 35-35 early in the second half before the Blue Devils hit nine consecutive points to give Coach Bucky Waters his 100th career victory.

Boston College held a slim lead before Mike Laughna, the game's top scorer with 25 points, hit a free throw to put Georgetown on top at 69-59. The Hoyas clinched the victory with free throws by Ed McNamara, and Dick Weber in the final 14 seconds.

Lee Trevino Man To Beat At Tucson

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Lee Trevino, who seems to have an affinity for the Tucson National Golf Club, ranks as the man to beat in the $110,000 Tucson Open Golf Tournament.

The flamboyant Trevino, who topped the 1970 money-winning list and won the Vardon Trophy for the best stroke average, always is high among the contenders, and has a little something extra going for him here.

The happy-go-lucky Mexican-American has won this event the last two years and is favored to make it three in a row.

"I don't know," Trevino said. "Maybe it's just my part of the country. We're pretty near the border, you know."

Trevino faces a surprisingly strong field in the 72-hole event that begins Thursday on the 7,305-yard par 72 Tucson National Course, a relatively flat, wide-open layout hacked out of the desert. Sponsors were, at one time, extremely concerned about the class of the 144-man field, with many of the top names in the game taking off to rest and practice for next week's PGA National Championship in Florida.

But half of the 16 men who won over $100,000 last year are in the field along with the two hottest players on the tour this year, Tom Shaw and Miller Barber.

Mets Face 3rd Base Problems

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

The revolving door that has posed as third base for the New York Mets ever since they began operations nine adventurous seasons ago, will make another spin this spring.

The Mets have employed 43 men at third base over those nine seasons and now Nos. 44 and 45 are getting ready to join the always expanding club.

New York learned Tuesday that Wayne Garrett, the more-or-less regular third baseman last season, will be occupied with the United States Army when the fun and games season starts. Garrett is serving his National Guard active duty commitment at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., which is a considerable distance west of Shea Stadium.

That means the Mets' third base job is up for grabs again. Bidding this time will be journeyman Bob Aspromonte, acquired from Atlanta in December and rookies Teo Martinez and Tim Foli. Aspromonte and Martinez will be Nos. 44 and 45 in the third base sweepstakes. Foli, up for a look last fall, was No. 43 and so does not qualify for a fresh number this time around.

Garrett batted .234 with 12 homers and 45 runs batted in last season. The Mets don't expect him to be available before August 1 this year.

While the Mets' third base situation became their first problem of the training season, other clubs are busy signing some pretty competent infielders to new contracts.

Boston got Rico Petrocelli's signature on a two-year pact worth $70,000 per year. Petrocelli showed up in camp Tuesday along with the early Red Sox arrivals to start working at third base, a new position for him. Rico is shifting over to make room for newly-acquired Luis Aparicio.

Shortstop Jim Fregosi agreed to terms with the California Angels, autographing a $75,000 contract.

School Issues Draw Mixed Voter Action

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Voters in the Pymatuning Valley School District in Ashtabula County, described as the most overcrowded in Ohio, approved Tuesday a $1.5 million bond issue to build new high and junior high schools.

But in the Franklin district of Warren County, faced with the prospect of not opening next fall for lack of funds, voters rejected a six-mill tax levy.

The Pymatuning Valley bond issue, passed 1,067-655, will be used with a 12.5 million state grant to build the schools.

None of the district's four schools can handle more than three grades and school officials say children sometimes spend up to three hours traveling on buses to get to classes.

The Franklin district began the current school year with a deficit of $279,000. Supt. Dewitt Terry has said the schools might not be able to open in September, and if they do open might have to close in October.

The proposal defeated Tuesday was the first presented to district voters since a six-mill increase was approved more than three years ago.

In other school issues voted upon in special elections Tuesday:

—A $4.4 million bond issue to build a new high school in the Cleveland suburb of North Royalton was rejected 1,527-1,110.

—A five-mill additional levy to support the high school, junior high and five grade schools in Vinton County was approved, thwarting a possible shutdown of schools.

Indict Girls As Robbery Ring Molls

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The Cuyahoga County grand jury has indicted two girls believed by police to be members of a robbery ring on five counts of armed robbery, two counts of kidnapping and two counts of aggravated assault.

Indicted Tuesday were 19-year-old Rita Avant and 20-year-old Karen Jacobs.

Two other girls believed to be members of the ring are in the custody of Cuyahoga County Juvenile Court.

The indictments charge that Miss Avant and Miss Jacobs robbed four women and a female impersonator of $110 and their purses while armed with a gun, knife and hammer. The two also are accused of kidnapping two of the victims and releasing them after taking their clothes.

Police say the crimes with which the two young women are charged took place on the East Side last Dec. 14.

Bad Heart Repaired; Youth Enlists

SANTA CLARA, Calif. (AP) — When he was 9 years old, specialists said John Clemmer would not live through his teens unless they patched up a hole in his heart the size of a nickel.

Now, at 18, he is nearing the end of military basic training, the first man known to have been accepted by the U.S. Army after open heart surgery, his parents said Monday in an interview.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Clemmer said John, their only son, plans to make a career of the Army.

Before the surgery, John was a thin, sickly child who tired easily and had to avoid strenuous activity.

Today he's a 175-pound, 6-foot athlete who was a wrestler and football and basketball player in high school as well as a weekend skier.

The surgery in July 1961 was one of the first open heart operations by Dr. Norman Shumway, one of the world's leading heart transplant physicians.

The insertion of a plastic patch in the wall of the heart was an unqualified success, said John's parents.

4 More Aftershocks Hit L.A. Area; Little Damage

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Four more aftershocks from last week's temblor rattled the Los Angeles area Tuesday. No new serious damage was reported.

Meanwhile, the official death toll increased to 64 and 11 quake-damaged buildings in the Los Angeles City School District were ordered demolished, including Los Angeles High School, scene for the television series "Room 222." The order affects 20,000 pupils.

Building inspectors continued to check structures in the San Fernando Valley, north of downtown, where 5,704 structures were reported damaged. More than 1,100 dwelling units have been declared unsafe and residents told to vacate them.

The big quake Feb. 9 caused damage estimated up to $1 billion and more than 1,000 injuries. It registered 6.6 magnitude on the Richter scale, hundreds of times more powerful than the aftershocks.

The latest victims were Arthur Cahill, 57, who died Monday and Mabel Meyers, 87, who died early Tuesday. Cahill was a patient at the San Fernando Veterans Hospital in Sylmar, where two wings collapsed. Mrs. Meyers died of complications from a broken leg suffered when she fell at her Long Beach home during the quake.

City School Supt. William Johnston told the Board of Education that about $209 million would be needed to replace and repair quake-damaged buildings and meet quake-resistant standards set by the state.

He said he would propose a $160-million bond issue and ask the federal government for the rest.

Besides Los Angeles High, two elementary schools were closed by damage. The 619-school system sustained 97 per cent of damage to school buildings reported in the county, officials said.

Double sessions were to start today at six schools to accommodate transferred students, including 3,400 from 54-year-old Los Angeles High, the city's oldest. They will attend Fairfax High, 46 blocks away.

School Bus Drivers Stage Safety Session

School bus drivers from Circleville City, Westfall, Logan Elm and Teays Valley districts will meet 8 p.m. tonight for their annual safety meeting.

The Jackson School at Fox has been selected for the assembly.

Antioch Gets Ford Grant

YELLOW SPRINGS, Ohio (AP)—A $400,000 Ford Foundation grant has been received by the Union for Experimenting Colleges and Universities at Antioch College for planning and development of its "University Without Walls" program.

The grant, coupled with one from the U.S. Office of Education, brings to $815,000, the amount available for the program, in which 19 schools are taking part.

Dr. Samuel Baskin, president of the union, said the program will provide "highly individualized and flexible approaches to learning, making use of more resources for teaching and learning than is now the case."

The program includes, in addition to classroom work, use of internships, field experience and research assistantships as a regular part of the student's undergraduate curriculum.

There will be no fixed curriculum and no uniform time schedule for awarding degrees.

HERO AWARD—Bill Pierson of Santa Ana, Calif., holds the George Washington Award of Freedoms Foundation in Valley Forge, Pa., where it was presented to him for action at San Diego State College about a year ago. luya lot different from Smithville, Tenn."

But Evins remains extremely interested as well in Smithville, Cookeville, Crossville, Jellico, Oneida, Tullahoma and the other cities sprinkled throughout his 21-county district.

Evins was in on the early discussions which led to formulation of the Model Cities program.

"Secretary (Robert) Weaver came by to see me and . . . ask . . . advice on a proposed demonstration cities program," Evins recalled.

"I told him, ' . . . you wouldn't get far in Congress if you submitted a program for four or five cities."

"But if you broaden your base and include medium size cities and small cities as well as the large ones, you would have a broad base of support in Congress."

"He took the suggestion and came back with a recommendation for 75 cities. . . ."

The Model Cities program cleared Congress in 1966, and was one reason why, in fiscal 1969, $9,866,491 was pumped into DeKalb County—or more than $850 per man, woman and child. Now bulldozers, fueled with federal dollars, are refashioning the face of Smithville and the county.

A new court house (they say in Smithville that Evins personally approved the federal-style architecture) is nearing completion a stone's throw from federally financed Congress Boulevard (which Evins had the honor of naming) and the mall-like lots where a grateful citizenry plans someday to build the Joe L. Evins Memorial Library.

Just north of town, a new air strip awaits the passing of winter for the final blacktopping. Throughout the county, sewer and water lines are being planned and built. Curbs and gutters are adding an urban look to business districts.

An ambitious road building plan is on the drawing board. New schools, community centers, health centers, public housing units are under construction. There is new industry and new hope for a population where barely half the families earn more than $3,000 a year in cash income.

The region needs development, Evins said. It needs jobs to stem chronic out migration to the industrial centers of the North.

There is evidence that the federal dollars may be having some effect.

In DeKalb County, for example, where population had fallen from 15,000 in 1940 to 10,774 in 1960, the tide is slowly turning the other way. The county is now growing by 1 per cent a year.

Larry J. Puckett, a young dentist who returned to Smithville with his skills after medical school, can vouch for other improvements.

"The people are beginning to progress real well. They never had anything and now they have a little . . . But nothing happened until Joe got into position to do what the others would do if they could get into position."

Dismiss Appeal For Darbydale Police Chief

An appeal on Thomas Wilson's conviction in Circleville Municipal Court last spring was dismissed yesterday by Fourth District Appeals Court.

Judges Gordon Gray, Homer Abele and Earl Stephenson took action to remove the appeal from the docket with their ruling that they did not qualify for jurisdiction in this case. Wilson failed to file notice of his appeal within the 10 day period required by state law.

Wilson was found guilty Marsh 27, 1970 by Municipal Court Judge Sterling Lamb in abandoning two stray dogs in Pickaway County. A $50 fine levied at the time of the judgment was deferred pending the appeal court's decision.

Bad Heart Repaired; Youth Enlists

School Issues Draw Mixed Voter Action

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Voters in the Pymatuning Valley School District in Ashtabula County, described as the most overcrowded in Ohio, approved Tuesday a $1.5 million bond issue to build new high and junior high schools.

But in the Franklin district of Warren County, faced with the prospect of not opening next fall for lack of funds, voters rejected a six-mill tax levy.

The Pymatuning Valley bond issue, passed 1,087-655, will be used with a 12.5 million state grant to build the schools.

None of the district's four schools can handle more than three grades and school officials say children sometimes spend up to three hours traveling on buses to get to classes.

The Franklin district began the current school year with a deficit of $279,000. Supt. Dewitt Terry has said the schools might not be able to open in September, and if they do open might have to close in October.

The proposal defeated Tuesday was the first presented to district voters since a six-mill increase was approved more than three years ago.

In other school issues voted upon in special elections Tuesday:

—A $4.4 million bond issue to build a new high school in the Cleveland suburb of North Royalton was rejected 1,527-1,110.

—A five-mill additional levy to support the high school, junior high and five grade schools in Vinton County was approved, thwarting a possible shutdown of schools.

Indict Girls As Robbery Ring Molls

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The Cuyahoga County grand jury has indicted two girls believed by police to be members of a robbery ring on five counts of armed robbery, two counts of kidnapping and two counts of aggravated assault.

Indicted Tuesday were 19-year-old Rita Avant and 20-year-old Karen Jacobs.

Two other girls believed to be members of the ring are in the custody of Cuyahoga County Juvenile Court.

The indictments charge that Miss Avant and Miss Jacobs robbed four women and a female impersonator of $110 and their purses while armed with a gun, knife and hammer. The two also are accused of kidnapping two of the victims and releasing them after taking their clothes.

Police say the crimes with which the two young women are charged took place on the East Side last Dec. 14.
